Youths Grill Laird On War Policies

Secretary At Meeting In State

BY CLIFF MILLER

STEVENS POINT — High school students put the secretary of defense on the defensive over American involvement in Vietnam and other issues Monday, during the third biennial Laird Youth Conference here.

But the secretary, Melvin R. Laird, also took the initiative to make points for the Nixon Administration during the day-long forum. Laird began the event in 1965 while he was still serving as 7th District representative. He appeared with Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare.

They were introduced to the 250 high school juniors and seniors by Dr. Lee S. Dreyfus, president of Stevens Point State University, where the conference took place.

Unique Forum
Dreyfus told the students assembled in the glare of television lights in the university gymnasium, "This is a unique forum."

"For two cabinet members to go directly to young people," Dreyfus said, is "an unprecedented kind of thing."

A Mosinee girl asked Laird if he could justify American deaths in Vietnam "in the name of U.S. security."

He told her there is "nothing that I spend more time on" than working toward an end to the deaths. "I will judge whether I have been a success as secretary of defense as to whether this war is concluded and these deaths can be stopped," Laird said.

Withdraw Troops

He said the Nixon Administration's aim is to withdraw American troops "as fast as we can." Laird declared, has the chance of success of the Nixon plan to turn the fighting burden over to the South Vietnamese.

A group of war protesters stood outside the gymnasium entrance as Laird and the students and onlookers entered. Laird accepted a pamphlet from one of the group and shook hands with at least one of the students, who were identified by university staff members as students at the state institution.

The protest was quiet, consisting of display of anti-war posters and the reading of the names of Vietnam war dead over a public address system.

Political Prisoners

A Stevens Point high school student named several political prisoners he said were being held by the present South Vietnamese regime and asked how this country could support a nation that is not necessarily democratic.

Laird said he agrees with a recent Senate resolution which he said declared that diplomatic recognition of another nation "by itself does not necessarily mean that we approve of everything that is going on."

Arab Crisis Unsettled

Guerrillas Renew Attacks On Villages in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Lebanese government reported new attacks by Arab guerrillas on Lebanese villages and army posts during the night. The attacks dimmed hopes for negotiations to settle the week-long crisis.

The attackers used rockets and heavy mortars in their strikes on the town of Rachaya and the village of Mashta Hassan. An army post at Aihia also was raided, the government said.

One Lebanese soldier was reported killed and four wounded. Three guerrillas died, three were wounded and four were taken prisoner, the government said. It also reported that in the rocket attack on Rachaya, 30 miles southeast of Beirut, a woman was killed when her house received a direct hit.

Army Post

Guerrillas occupying the village of Yanta brought in reinforcements Monday night to consolidate their hold, the government said. Yanta was overrun Friday night.

The presence of guerrillas at Rachaya and Mashta Hassan brings to 32 the number of localities where they have been reported. Since the present crisis began, the guerrillas have occupied four villages in eastern and southern Lebanon.

American Oil Tank

Earlier in the night, bazookas hit an American oil tank, and shooting and bombs erupted in Beirut as Lebanese officials prepared for peace talks with the leaders of the guerrillas.

Huge flames hit the night sky in the oil port of Sidon after two bazookas, apparently fired by Arab guerrillas, blasted big holes in a 100,000-barrel oil tank of the American-owned Transarabian Oil Pipeline Co. It took firemen 2½ hours to extinguish the blaze.

In Beirut, unidentified men opened up with machine guns on a police station in the Moslem Basta area. Reinforcements were rushed to the scene, and the attackers retreated after a 15-minute exchange. There was no report of casualties or arrests.

Near Prison
Shooting also broke out near the El Raml prison, and a woman was injured by a stray bullet.

Residents reported bomb blasts in various parts of Beirut during the night, apparently as one result of the lifting of the curfew from 3 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Earlier in the night President Charles Helou conferred with Premier Rashid Karami, the commander in chief and the chief of staff of the army to formulate proposals to put before guerrilla leaders at a meeting Egypt is sponsoring in Cairo.

Permission Asked

Al Ahran, the semi-official Cairo newspaper, said today that Egypt had demanded that the Lebanese give the guerrillas a clear declaration of freedom to attack Israel from the bases they have established in villages along the Lebanese-Israeli border.

The paper, which usually speaks for President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said any mediation effort "must be aimed primarily not at a compromise but a proper solution which would guarantee the highest interests of the Arab struggle, together with the interests of the Lebanese people."

The Lebanese government says it sympathizes with the guerrillas, but its army tried to crack down on them last week, because it fears Israeli retaliation.

Panel Not Disinterested

Proxmire Slams Military Watchdogs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire says a blue-ribbon panel intended to be a watchdog of the Pentagon has become, by virtue of military contracts held by a majority of members, a shield against criticism of the defense establishment.

Eight members of the presidential panel have interests totaling more than $1 billion in defense-related businesses, the Wisconsin Democrat said.

"Obviously this panel is caught in the embrace of the very bureaucracy it is supposed to evaluate and constructively criticize," he said in a Senate speech to be delivered today but released Monday night.

The Pentagon, however, said the members are "widely experienced individuals from many walks of life" who are serving without pay.

Their diversity should enable them "to meaningfully and objectively view national defense needs of the nation," defense officials said.

The panel was named last June 30 by President Nixon and assigned to study procurement and management practices of the Pentagon.

Holdings by the eight members in 12 companies doing more than $815 million in business with the Defense Department, and positions of two of them with insurance companies holding contractor stock or loans raises a conflict of interest, Proxmire said.

"In short, these are the eight men who may be faced with recommending changes which may hurt their own interests," he said.

Pentagon Staffer

In addition, he said, the 15-member panel's chief administrative officer, J. Fred Buz-hardt, is a Pentagon staff member.

"The panel has become another creature of the Pentagon," Proxmire said. "The panel is at best a sham, at worst an indication of how powerful the Pentagon has actually become—so powerful that it is able to control those who would criticize it."

Proxmire supplied this list of those he described "members with close Pentagon associations":

—Robert C. Jackson, chairman, Ryan Aeronautical Co.

Shipyard Representative
—Lewis Franklin Powell Jr., a Richmond, Va., lawyer whose firm, the senator said, represents Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co.

—Ruben F. Mettler, executive vice president and director of TRW Inc.

—Wilfred J. McNeil, director and adviser of Fairchild-Hiller Corp.

—William Blackie, chairman Caterpillar Tractor Co. and a director of Shell Oil Co.

—William P. Clements Jr., chairman of the board of governors of Southern Methodist University, which Proxmire said holds $735,000 in defense contracts.

Proxmire said Clements is a director of Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co., which has defense industry loans and stocks totaling $7.6 million, and chairman of SEDCO, Inc., which has $93,000 in defense contracts.

—John Maurice Fluke, president, John Fluke Manufacturing Co.

Administration Keeping Out Of General Electric Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, viewing the nationwide General Electric strike as a test of its anti-inflation policies, says it will let the company and unions fight it out without federal interference.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz said the government will keep out of the GE strike except for the voluntary efforts of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. If any war production is stopped, Shultz indicated, the government would consider a Taft-Hartley injunction only against the few plants involved.

Shultz said the Nixon administration had already warned both labor and business not to base wage and price decisions on the assumption of continued inflation.

"Why is the company putting up so much resistance?" Shultz asked. "It seems to me the reason must be, and I believe it is true in the case of General Electric, they are feeling the effects of the anti-inflation policy in their product market, they can't just raise their prices so easily. That means that their profits will be squeezed by a large wage increase."

"There's nothing as likely to put backbone into company negotiators than a squeeze on their profits. That's what's really going on here," said Shultz.

Shultz' remark infuriated leaders of a 13-union AFL-CIO combine representing some 147,000 strikers.

"If they're going to keep their hands out of it, they ought to keep their mouth out of these affairs," said a highly placed labor source.

The labor source also sharply countered Shultz's claim that a profit squeeze led to GE's stiff resistance to wage demands, citing Standard and Poor figures that the firm's profits climbed 11 per cent the third quarter of this year over the same period of 1968.

"Even GE didn't claim a profit squeeze in collective bargaining and can hardly make that claim," he said of the figures showing after-tax profits of $90.2 million compared with $81.3 million in the third quarter of last year.

Shultz, asked if the Nixon administration's policy meant it viewed GE's strong stand as "responsible" and the striking unions as "irresponsible," said "No."

"It isn't as though there won't be any wage increase. The question is how much of a wage increase," he said.

POW Mail Might Have Hanoi Okay

CHICAGO (AP) — David T. Dellinger says Hanoi plans to open up a regular exchange of mail between American prisoners of war and their families.

Dellinger, head of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, also declared Monday the North Vietnamese would release the names of their prisoners, although not necessarily right away.

He said the U.S. peace movement was the only channel Hanoi would use in providing such a list.

In Coronado, Calif., a spokesman for the prisoners' families said that forcing the families to apply to a political organization for information would be "an unnecessary exploitation of their helplessness."

Hanoi Delegate

Mrs. James B. Stockdale, the national coordinator for the National League of American Prisoners of Southeast Asia, made the statement in a telegram to Xuan Oahn of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks.

Funneling information through the antiwar committee, she told Oahn, "only diminishes the humanitarianism of the gesture your country is making in releasing the list of prisoners. The world will see no logic, only vindictiveness, in such an arrangement."

Mrs. Stockdale sent the telegram after learning of Dellinger's statements in Chicago.

Dellinger made these statements in disclosing parts of a plan his attorney said was arranged in meetings with the North Vietnamese in Paris over the weekend. The disclosure came at a news conference be-

Tito Examines Earthquake's Devastation

Search for Bodies of Victims

BANJA LUKA, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito came here for a look at this quake-devastated city today as rescue workers sifted through rubble in search of more victims.

The quakes Sunday and Monday killed at least 20 persons, injured hundreds, damaged or destroyed almost every building in the city and sent thousands fleeing in panic.

As Tito toured the city's streets, he saw thousands of homeless residents huddled beneath tents or around campfires in parks and empty lots.

Those who did not flee this industrial city of 65,000 stayed in the open, fearing more destructive earth shocks. Officials said a preliminary survey showed only a few of the city's 10,000 apartments were safe to live in.

Engineers made the rounds of standing buildings. They used paint of different colors to mark each structure—yellow for those to be demolished immediately, red for ruins which should not be approached and green for those which eventually may be repaired.

Light tremors shook the city again today, but no further damage was reported.

State Bases Affected By Cutback

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A spokesman for Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says Wisconsin will be involved in the Pentagon's plans to shut down or cut back operations at 307 military bases.

The spokesman said Monday there will be a cutback at Camp McCoy, located near Sparta, and some additional phasing out at Truax Field in Madison.

Col. Joseph E. Venaels, post commander at Camp McCoy, said: "I have no information, official or otherwise, concerning the future of the post."

Vanaels said economy measures ordered some time ago have already been put into effect.

There are about 200 military personnel at Camp McCoy, along with 485 civilian workers and 350 temporary employees.

During the summer months thousands of Army reservists and National Guardsmen train at the base.

Sources in Washington said the Defense Department decision could eliminate 230 jobs at Truax and 25 at Camp McCoy.

The decision involving 220 military jobs and 60 civilian assignments at Truax, officials said, would be effective by Dec. 31, saving an estimated $2.28 million annually.

Accompanying the Truax action will be a declaration making the Truax housing complex at Sun Prairie surplus property.

Movies, TV Might be Charged With Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — A civil rights investigation the late Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen demanded the government end may result in a suit against the motion picture and television industries.

Attorneys for the major movie studios and the three television networks began talks with Justice Department civil rights officials Monday in a last-ditch attempt to avert legal action.

But if there is no settlement, the department is prepared to file complaints charging movie studios, TV networks and various craft unions with anti-Negro hiring practices.

Ironically, it was the movie industry probe that led Dirksen to threaten last March 27 to have Clifford L. Alexander Jr. fired as chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Responding to Dirksen, the White House announced Alexander would be replaced. But the young Negro lawyer quit before he was ousted.

In doing so, Alexander protested a "crippling lack of support" by the Nixon administration, particularly because the Justice Department had not acted on EEOC recommendations for a suit against the movie industry.

Citing Negro employment figures, Alexander said the major Hollywood studios had only a handful of blacks among their nonperforming, off-camera employees. The EEOC findings said only eight Negroes were included in the more than 4,000 union members.

tween sessions of a U.S. District Court trial where Dellinger and seven other men are being tried on charges of conspiracy to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Defense attorney William M. Kunstler visited Paris at the request of Dellinger and another defendant, Rennard C. "Rennie" Davis, Dellinger said. He said he and Davis had been invited to make the trip but were not granted permission to leave the jurisdiction of the court.

Dellinger said the North Vietnamese would release the names of prisoners of war at some future date but that someone may have to go to Paris again before this could be brought about. He said he assumed the names of all flyers shot down would be included.

In Washington, State Department officials cautioned against expectations that North Vietnam is about to release a list of American prisoners it is holding.

The officials added that it is not clear that Kunstler had learned any more than wives of captive Americans who also talked to North Vietnamese representatives in Paris.

Davis told the news conference that North Vietnam also intends to release "more detailed information" on conditions in prisoner-of-war camps.

Substantial information on U.S. prisoners probably would be available in Washington Nov. 15, one of the days in the next scheduled Vietnam Moratorium, Dellinger predicted.

do not support the action that has been taken with regard to political prisoners," Laird said. But he reminded the young people that this country has been criticized before for becoming too deeply involved in internal affairs of South Vietnam. We cannot "take over the whole judicial system," Laird added.

He also said the Nixon Administration is conducting a close study of the eight basic treaties binding this country in foreign commitments. He predicted the study will result in "a very sobering policy" for future commitments, and may result in a request for Congress to consider alterations in present pacts to produce a system of alliances that "will not commit the United States to more than it can deliver."

$100 Million Power Plant Planned for State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The Wisconsin Public Service Corp., the Wisconsin Power and Light Co., and the Madison Gas and Electric Co., operating as a production pool, will build a huge new steam generating plant "somewhere in south central Wisconsin" and will pay heavily in development and operating costs for the sake of environmental protection.

Spokesmen for the three utilities made the disclosure as they met Monday with Gov. Warren P. Knowles and officials of the State Public Service Commission and the State Department of Natural Resources, the regulatory agencies involved.

Teacher Aides Could Change Class Ratios

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The State Department of Public Instruction in an official bulletin has suggested that the spiraling costs of operating schools may be slowed down through an adjustment of teacher-pupil requirements.

In announcing guidelines for the employment of "teacher aides" in the schools, and assigning to them non-teaching functions that are commonly performed by the higher salaried teachers, the department said there may be reconsideration "of acceptable ratios between certified teachers and pupils."

One of the important changes in the school system of the state as a whole during the last 20 years or more has been a reduction of the pupil-teacher ratio, in part because of requirements written into state aid laws.

Certification Rejected

The department said that the employment of teacher aides for non-instructional duties is now possible by local boards of education, but it rejected the idea of formal certification of such employees as premature.

The guidelines as published by the state supervising agency emphasized that the aide is limited to assisting the certified teacher.

"He may not be assigned professional teaching responsibilities such as diagnosing educational needs, prescribing and evaluating the effects of teaching."

"He is regarded as an extension of the teacher, as an assistant who performs only the bidding of the teacher. The aide does not reduce, remove or transfer the certified teacher's authority or responsibility," the guidelines explain.

They said formal announcement of the site location would be made next week, and that they would soon apply to the state agencies for authorization to permit early construction of the 500,000 kilowatt plant that will begin production in 1975.

Cost of the new plant was estimated at about $100 million and James Underkoffler, head of WPL, said operating expenses would be at least 10 per cent higher than normal because of costs of protecting neighboring scenic values and the prevention of thermal pollution of public waters, that results, from the discharge of heated waters.

The utility head said the demand for electrical power would continue to accelerate, and that the three companies for which he spoke needed more balance in their generation and distribution system. The three firms are partners in the construction of a nuclear generating plant on Lake Michigan in Kewaunee County which is not under way.

They considered a second nuclear plant, he said, but cost inflation of nuclear generating equipment has been so steep that nuclear generation can compete with coal only in a plant generating at least 800,000 kilowatts.

A key—and precedent-setting—in Wisconsin—feature of the new power plant will be a partnership is aware of the "cooling lake," into which warm water will be discharged before it is ultimately returned to public water nearby.

The utility head noted that the higher cost of operating such a facility would be borne by ratepayers, but he said the utility NEENAH — Kimberly-Clark Corp., had an 18 per cent increase in sales and a 39 per cent increase in earnings in the third quarter, President Guy Minard said today.

Sales in the quarter ending Sept. 30 were $204.4 million, compared with $173.3 million in the corresponding period a year ago. Net income was $11.4 million, or 98 cents a share, compared with $8.2 million, or 81 cents a share, in the strike-depressed third quarter of 1968.

Per share earnings increased 21 per cent. This lower rate of increase as compared to total earnings reflects the company's recent stock offering that increased the number of outstanding shares.

For the first nine months, sales were $623.5 million and net income was $37.2 million, or $3.50 a share. Last year, nine month sales were $534.1 million and earnings were $30.3 million, or $2.97 a share. All 1968 figures have been restated to reflect the change to a calendar reporting period.

Minard also announced that Kimberly-Clark's 50-per-cent-owned affiliate in Japan would double its capacity for producing household and sanitary paper products. The $61 million project of Jujo Kimberly K. M. involves increasing the output of an existing tissue machine and installation of a second machine by late next year.

Youth Fined After Chase

Shiocton Resident Pleads Guilty to Driving Charge

WAUPACA — A Shiocton youth led the county patrol on a high speed chase early Monday before he was apprehended at 1:30 a.m. at the intersection of U. S. 45 and State 54 in New London.

Raymond W. Widder, 19, pleaded guilty to the charge of driving while under the influence of an intoxicating beverage when he appeared before Judge Nathan Wiese later in the day. He was fined $200, plus $7 costs, or 45 days in the county jail.

His driver's license is automatically revoked for one year. The youth's breathalyzer test read .18 and .15 is considered "legally intoxicated."

required from railroads, the officials were informed.

Equipment will be installed that will provide for the removal of virtually all of the solids discharged from the coal burning, the WPL said, and possibly some of the gasses.

William Ferris, chief engineer of WPL, said the new plant will provide a more secure supply of power for the pool which now serves customers from Madison and vicinity in the south, central and north central Wisconsin, the lower Fox River Valley, northeastern Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

Underkoffler said the demand for electrical power will increase indefinitely at a more rapid pace, until in the year 2000 the demand will be seven times that of today and electricity will supply 65 per cent of the energy demands of the country.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An accident on a Barron County bridge raised Wisconsin's 1969 traffic fatality figure to 937 today compared with 969 on the same date last year.

Gerald Peterson, 24, of Cumberland died Monday in a Rice Lake hospital after his car hit a railing on a Barron County road.

Lo Crosse County authorities said Monday an autopsy showed crash injuries suffered Sunday caused the death of Fred Kihm, 71, of La Crosse.

"It is clear," Sachjen ruled, "that the mere showing that tax money is being paid to a sectarian institution is not enough under law to establish a violation."

The lease arrangement will end with the completion of a new public school.

Use of Church For School Ruled Legal

Judge Denies Order Against Temporary Public Classrooms

MADISON (AP) — Temporary use of a church for public school classes was upheld Monday by Circuit Judge William Sachjen.

The judge denied a restraining order requested by Dr. Nathaniel O. Calloway, who contended the Madison school board's action in leasing two classrooms from St. Joseph's Catholic Church was illegal.

Calloway contended his constitutional rights were being violated because his child, a kindergarten pupil, was being compelled to attend a religious institution and because public

Aga Khan Weds in Splendor

BY HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP) — The Aga Khan IV, the handsome and wealthy young spiritual leader of the world's Ismaili Moslems, was married today to a British society divorcee in an Oriental ceremony that included a shower of pearls at their feet and garlands of flowers around the neck.

It was the second ceremony for 32-year-old Prince Karim and Lady Sarah Crichton-Stuart, 29. Last week they went through the civil ceremony required by French law.

Si Hamza Boubaker, rector of the Moslem Institute in Paris, performed the religious rites at the groom's home on the Ile de la Cite, close to Notre Dame Cathedral.

The bride, born in India of English parents, wore a white and silver sari of Benares silk. The bridegroom, a direct descendant of the prophet Mohammed, by way of the late Aly Khan and an English mother, wore a white sharkskin sherwani with knee-length coat, an Iranian formal outfit, and a tall astrakhan hat.

Members of the couple's families, a handful of special guests and representatives of the national religious communities of the Ismaili sect were present.

The bridal couple sat on a sofa at one end of the long room. The families and special guests were on other sofas at either side, and the religious representatives sat on the floor facing the wedding party.

The room was a mass of vivid colors, with roses behind the newlyweds and most of the women guests in saris of different hues. The Begum Mohammed Khan, widow of the Aga Khan III, was in a green sari. Among the family was the groom's half sister, Princess Yasmin Aly Khan, the daughter of movie actress Rita Hayworth.

Pearls Scattered
The 40-minute ceremony included recitation of verses from the Koran, a sermon by the rector, the signing of marriage contracts in French and Arabic and prayers. Then the Rani of Hunza, the princess of a tiny principality in the Himalayas north of Kashmir, scattered pearls at the feet of the newlyweds.

At the reception which followed the bride and groom cut a four-tier cake decorated with the Aga Khan's family crest and bordered with red and green outlines of minaret arches.

Six hundred guests were invited to another reception tonight at the Aga's mansion.

A graduate of Harvard, the Aga Khan is one of the world's wealthiest men as well as the leader of the 20 million Ismaili Moslems. He has a big stable of race horses, is a proficient skier, and is developing an expensive tourist resort on the island of Sardinia. But he gives constant attention to the affairs of this sect, and particularly hospitals, schools and other welfare projects for them.

His bride is a convert to the Moslem religion. She was born Sarah Crocker Poole and is known to her friends as Sally. At her conversion she took the name Salima. After divorce from Lord James Crichton-Stuart, she was one of the most sought-after photographer's models in London.

With her marriage, she became Her Highness the Begum Aga Khan.

Gains Claimed by Conservatives, Liberals at Second Bishops' Synod

By PATRICK O'KEEFE

Associated Press Writer
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Both the liberals and the conservatives claim a measure of victory at the second Roman Catholic synod of bishops.

Liberals, such as Belgium's Leo Joseph Cardinal Suenens, pointed to the considerable new sharing in papal authority Pope Paul VI seems ready to concede to his church's bishops.

Conservatives, such as Jean Cardinal Danielou of France, cited the clear reaffirmation by all 146 delegates of the absolute primacy of the Pope, his right to make the major decisions for the Church.

Uniting Assembly

Other synod members protested they could not understand this talk about "liberals vs. conservatives." They viewed the synod as a great uniting assembly molding Pope and bishops into a fraternal governing team. England's John Cardinal Heenan called the synod "a victory for common sense and tolerance."

In the formal closing session Monday, the Pope endorsed two key requests, that a synod meet every two years and that the synod's secretariat function permanently in Rome.

He also signaled broad acceptance of 11 other proposals from the bishops.

Two leading liberals in the synod, Cardinal Suenens and Bishop Alexander Carter of Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, registered over-all approval of the results. They praised the freedom of speech that prevailed some of during the 16-day assembly, the participation of Pope Paul and the acceptance of the synod as a fixture in Church life.

Point of View
Cardinal Suenens, however, compared the synod to an elevator on the third floor of a 10-story building: "If you're looking down from the top, you say, 'Look, it's already on the third floor.' But if you're looking up from the ground, you say, 'It's only on the third floor.'"

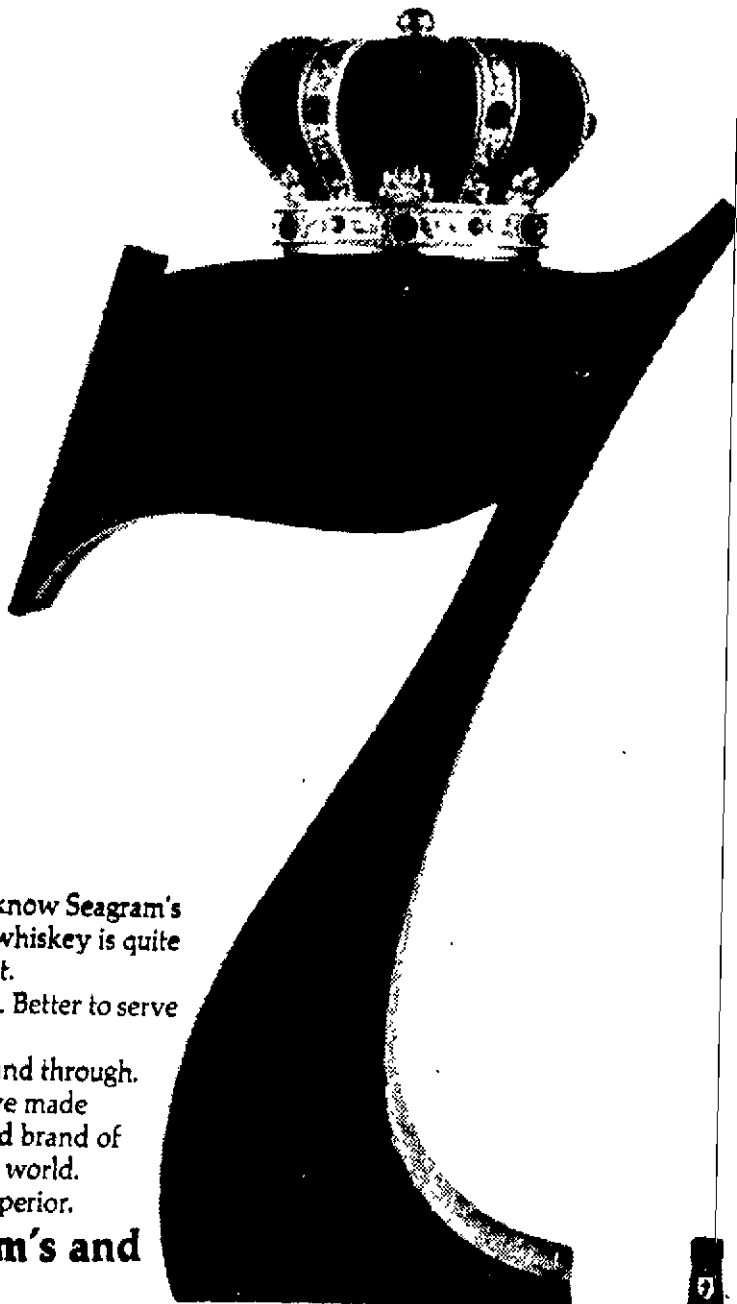

Cardinal Danielou, a Jesuit theologian who is considered the most articulate conservative, proclaimed himself "very happy" with the results of the synod. "The goal of the synod was to organize relations between the Holy See and episcopal conferences," he said. "It was seen that the organization was very bad."

Learned From Press
"It was really scandalous that the bishops learned about major Church developments from the press. There is no government in the world that acts like that," Cardinal Danielou said.

The Rev. George Malzone of Washington, D.C., conceded that the institution is moving. "But he said "the people are moving so fast" that by the time collegial concepts are applied, "the people may already have moved to new forms."

"Will what the bishops have achieved have any meaning?" "I say perhaps the contrary," he asked.

Prohibition Anniversary

Taps Turned Off Just 50 Years Ago

By ARTHUR EVERETT

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Volstead Act became the law of the land 50 years ago today. Officially the country went dry. Actually, national prohibition ushered in the wettest era in the nation's history, the Roaring 20s.

"A great social and economic experiment, noble in nature and far reaching in purpose," Herbert Hoover called the National Prohibition Act in 1928, the year he was elected president.

But by then prohibition was a colossal flop, noble or otherwise.

The speakeasy was the social center of the nation—where there had been 15,000 preprohibition saloons in New York, there were 32,000 speakeasies. Home brew and bathtub gin were symbols of a nation's defiance of the law. The hip flask was as common on a man's person as his billfold.

The national crime syndicate, as Americans know it today, came into being to cater to the unslakable thirst of prohibition-beset citizens.

Actually reformers had been inching toward prohibition since local option was inaugurated in Maine in 1829. That left it to individual units of government to outlaw alcoholic beverages within their boundaries if they wished.

Not until World War I did prohibition evolve on a national scale. Some critics claimed it was pushed through only because of the absence in the armed forces of so many young Americans.

The 18th amendment to the Constitution was adopted Jan. 16, 1919, to become effective one year later. It outlawed the transport, possession or sale of alcoholic beverages throughout the nation.

At that time, prohibition already was in effect in 33 of the 48 states, and Alaska, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and the District of Columbia. Of the approximately 105 million Americans, 63.3 per cent were forbidden alcohol.

Rep. Andrew Volstead of Minnesota was the sponsor of the National Prohibition Act which defined intoxicating liquor as any beverage containing "one half of one per centum or more of alcohol by volume."

Volstead Kept Belief in Value Of Prohibition

GRANITE FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Andrew J. Volstead, author of the prohibition act, believed to the end that the ban on beverage alcohol bettered moral conditions in America.

After the act's repeal Volstead maintained: "Law does regulate morality, has regulated morality ever since the Ten Commandments were given."

Volstead, once the Yellow Medicine County attorney, represented this district in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1903 to 1923. After retirement from Congress, he lived the life of a country lawyer until his death at 86 in 1947.

Margaret Mead For Marijuana

Anthropologist Tells Investigators Drug Is Not Harmful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Margaret Mead, sprightly 67-year-old anthropologist-author, has let it be known in Congress if she were young today. "I'm sure I would be using marijuana."

She made that disclosure after testifying before a Senate committee that the weed is less harmful than alcohol and should be legally available to persons 16 or older.

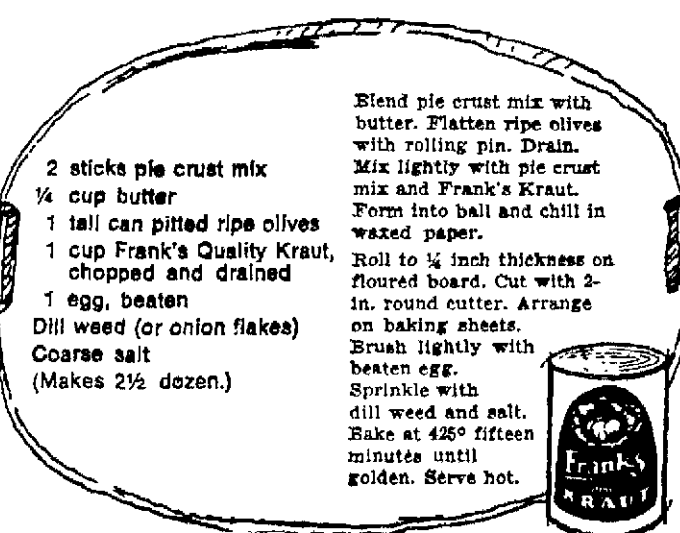

"It doesn't lead to the excesses of behavior that alcohol does," she said, "and it does not have the toxic effects of cigarettes."

A student of primitive cultures, Dr. Mead demonstrated a hip understanding of generation gap problems arising from parental preoccupations with marijuana.

"You have the adult standing with a cocktail in one hand, a cigarette in the other, saying 'I don't want my child to smoke pot.'"

Strokes Occur Only In Brain Malfunction

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do charleyhorses cause slight strokes in the leg? I had one and the doctor said it was a slight stroke. Another lady said she also had a charleyhorse when she had her stroke, in her leg also. — Mrs. F. S.

You are under misapprehension as to where and what a stroke is — but don't feel upset about it. You have a lot of company.

A stroke occurs in the brain. A blood vessel ruptures or is plugged. Either way, circulation to some part of the brain is disrupted.

If a large part of the brain is involved, the results can be very serious: general paralysis, or even death.

However, not all strokes are large. Many are small, so small at times that the patient doesn't realize it has happened.

In your case, it was a slight one, but in your case and your friend's this is what evidently happened: a part of the brain that controls muscles in your leg was involved.

Remember, the brain is what controls our physical actions. The brain sends an impulse along the network of nerves, and this impulse tells this muscle or that one — or several — to contract or relax.

There is no way a charleyhorse (a strained leg muscle) can cause a stroke — but a stroke could cause some paralysis in the leg. It wasn't enough to prevent you from walking. It did not, obviously, affect all of the leg muscles. It did, however, interfere with some particular muscles. The result was your "charleyhorse."

Keep in mind, naturally, that not every charleyhorse is the result of a stroke. Usually it is just over-straining of a muscle.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 16, and weigh 134. I had rheumatic fever and the last time I visited my doctor (two weeks ago) he said, "Take it easy," but didn't outline any form of diet for me. I have tried counting calories, but I scribble on some things and load up on others. I am five-foot-two and 36-27-38. — L. B.

Maybe you are scrimping on the wrong things. I'd suggest that you study my booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing."

with special emphasis on the list of low-calorie foods that provide nutrients you need and on the list of "diet-wrecker" snacks. You can get the booklet by mail — send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of the Post-Crescent.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Every time I wear shorts I have to lubricate my legs. I have very dry skin, and on my legs are scales that make the skin hard and rough. I am a Negro and the white "ash" shows up. Is there anything except petroleum jelly that will solve my problems? My friends have suggested a dermatologist, but I can't afford one. Is it true that I might not have enough oil-fats in my diet? — D. L. M.

I doubt that diet is involved; American diet in general is too high rather than low in fats (or oil-fats).

A lanolin cream to soften the skin may answer your problem. There also are soaps and creams containing a small amount of salicylic acid which will reduce the scaling. Check the ingredients on the wrapping or label.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 75 and notice signs of menstrual bleeding once a month. Could this be from kidney stones or what? I have not consulted a doctor as I do not care to undergo surgery. — N. N.

Periodic bleeding of this type and at your age would not be from stones but from the vagina. By all means have examination by your doctor, and a Pap smear. Principal (although not sole) causes of such bleeding are (a) cancer; (b) if you are taking a hormone preparation, it may be from what is known as "withdrawal bleeding." But you should find out promptly.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Byrnes Predicts More Wisconsin Ship Building

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican member of Wisconsin's congressional delegation says his state could benefit under the maritime ship-building program proposed by President Nixon.

Rep. John W. Byrnes said Friday the program could produce more contracts for Wisconsin's Great Lakes ports, although the work probably would involve small ships.

The state, Byrnes said, should not expect to compete with larger, sea coast shipyards for construction of huge vessels. The winter ice that temporarily seals the St. Lawrence Seaway also would discourage big-ship construction in Wisconsin, he said.

Nixon's plans for expanding the nation's shipping fleet could be beneficial to such ports as Marinette and Sturgeon Bay, where shipyards build gunboats, tugs, landing craft and other ships for the Navy, Byrnes said.

Social Security Needs Cost of Living Link

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Would tying Social Security benefit increases to the Consumer Price Index (our measure of increases in living costs in the U.S.) give beneficiaries more financial protection than they have been getting directly from Congress? Why does the powerful and savvy Wilbur

Porter

Mills, D-Ark., influential chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which is now considering Social Security benefit boosts, oppose the idea?

One of President Nixon's key domestic proposals is to tie Social Security benefit boosts to increases in our cost of living. The idea is, as Nixon put it, to "make certain once and for all that the retired, the disabled and the dependent never again bear the brunt of inflation." It would also remove periodic Social Security benefit raises from the political arena and, again to quote Nixon, would "make protection against inflation for the elderly 'a matter of certainty rather than a matter of hope.'"

Political Footballs

As of now, Congress has a strong tendency to vote benefit increases in election years (although not in all election years). The amount of the increases and the extent of liberalizations are big political footballs and may or may not make up for price increases since the previous benefit boosts. Just since the last general benefit increase in March 1968, inflation has chewed up about 3½ cents out of every $1 of that increase. To date in 1969, the annual rate of rise in consumer prices has been about 5½ per cent.

It's indisputable that inflation hits hardest those living on fixed incomes. The nation's elderly citizens — one third of whom live in poverty — must not be forced to bear the brunt of today's inflation price spiral. But what's the answer to that above question of how much more protection our Social Security beneficiaries would be getting if Social Security had been tied to the Consumer Price Index (CPI) all along?

If this had been so since benefits were first paid out in 1940, benefit levels would have risen a total of 151.9 per cent. The benefit boosts actually voted by Congress since 1940, however, (and there have been seven across-the-board boosts) have hiked benefit levels a full 191.1 per cent — or far more than the cost-of-living tie would have achieved. And if Congress votes a 10 per cent benefit increase, the percentage would soar to 220.2 per cent.

Of course, there are now persuasive arguments in favor of tying Social Security benefits to the CPI.

Escalator Clauses

Almost one-third of the major union contracts currently being negotiated have some provision to escalate wages as living costs rise. This also is the case for those covered by the Federal Employees' Compensation Act and the civil service and military retirement systems. And it has long been the case in the Social Security systems of many other nations.

Also, Social Security beneficiaries usually must wait months or years before they get a benefit increase to offset the steady erosion of inflation. For example, they had to wait 52 months before their benefit boost in 1959, 72 months before their 1965 increase and 38 months before their boost in early 1968. There was no increase at all during the entire inflationary decade of the 1940s.

The elderly are all the more vulnerable because they are the most likely to keep their nest-eggs in bank savings accounts or U. S. Government bonds or other sources which aren't yielding enough interest to offset price increases.

The sad point is, though, that once we tie Social Security benefits to the cost of living we are accepting inflation as an economic fact of life. We are, in effect, resigning ourselves to the very spiral we protest

Canada Prime Minister Promises to Protect Arctic From Pollution

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau says Canada is determined to keep man's pollution problems from the virgin Arctic.

A statement, delivered Friday in the House of Commons, indicates Trudeau also said he will not bow to "pressures of any state" and invited the international community to support Canada's initiative "for a new concept—an international legal regime designed to ensure to human beings the right to live in a wholesome natural environment."

Television and Political Campaigns

In recent years the costs to political candidates to get their points of view — or at least their faces — across to prospective voters has become astronomical. The television costs especially have played into the hands of the very rich, such as the Kennedys, or meant that candidates made compromises to raise funds. But no one has yet come up with a solution.

The 20th Century Fund's commission on campaign costs, headed by former Federal Communications Commission chairman Newton Minow, has proposed setting aside a certain amount of prime television and radio time to be called "Voters' Time." It would require every single one of the 7,542 broadcasting outlets in the country, including all radio, UHF and VHF television, commercial and educational channels and FM to carry at the same time half an hour of political time for the nominees for president and vice-president. The federal government would pay the stations some $4 million to help compensate for lost commercial programs and the individual voter would be asked to make campaign contributions, tax deductible, to help pay for it all.

Obviously this would be a boon to a lot of political candidates although it is difficult to see how or why the program should be limited to the top candidates. But it is objectionable for at least two reasons. It would not really equalize matters between the wealthy or the modestly endowed candidate since the former would have just that much more money to spend on paid advertisements in all media. And rather than being a program for the individual candidates to be challenged by issues, it is merely another form of advertising for them. The networks generally have offered prime time to major candidates for debates or other real efforts to find out their different opinions on major issues without much success since the Kennedy-Nixon debates in 1960.

There is another faintly disturbing aspect to the plan. While viewers would have the obvious right to turn off the program and go read a book or play poker, the very fact that every broadcasting outlet in the nation would by federal order be carrying the same program to some extent at least is a curtailment of liberty. True, most networks carry presidential speeches at the same time and moon landings and other major national or international events. But they are not required to do so.

The hard fact is that the appearances of political candidates on television in particular have become Madison Avenue affairs, quite often with little relevance to major issues, and aimed, understandably, at selling the candidate through repeated familiarity with his face. The proposal from the 20th Century Fund would not change this. The voter who really wants to know how the candidates differ on the issues can read their speeches and their answers to questions put by political reporters on all the media. And even here, as in the case of former President Johnson and his go slow approach to the war in Vietnam which he presented in the 1964 campaign, it sometimes doesn't mean much anyway.

Ship of Fools

Lights Out at the Empire State

Interruption of nature's cycles is something for which man has to answer, and the resulting problems often are much harder to solve than they were to create.

A happy exception is the case of the Empire State Building turning out its lights for migrating birds. Until Oct. 31, the floodlights illuminating the top 30 floors of the 102-story building between dusk and midnight are darkened on cloudy and foggy nights.

The Audubon Society says birds migrating south get confused by light diffused through clouds or fog. They have lost direction and flown into buildings in past instances, and so the society asked for a temporary "lights out" policy.

Turning out lights is a relatively easy way to restore natural balance. Cleaning up the pollution of atmosphere and our waterways is a much more difficult and serious problem in the cycles of nature. It is one thing to complain about the smell from a local industry when the wind happens to blow from a certain direction and the air carries smoke particles. We can shake our heads and cluck our tongues when viewing a waterway and seeing the polluted coloration as our water resources mingle with waste products.

It is easy to escape by traveling a few miles into the clear country air to fish in a pristine bubbling brook or swim in a pine-bordered lake. But unless we do more about it than turning off the lights of an office building, those escapes from tampering with nature's cycles will not remain for long.

Democracy Suffers Another Blow

The overthrow of the reasonably democratic regime in Somalia by a military junta is more bad news.

The coup took place only one day after the funeral of President Shermarke who was assassinated. It ousted by force the government of Premier Egal who had been in the United States at the time of the murder and had returned home to take charge of his government.

Of equal concern to that of another militarily controlled nation is the trend the new government has taken since it seized power. There have been massive demonstrations, allegedly spontaneous, for the new regime. It has renamed itself the Somali Democratic Republic, usually a name connected with the far left. It has banned all political parties and revoked newspaper licenses. The official publication, Voice of Somalia, has been replaced with one named October 21st Star. All of this sounds as if both Cuba and China have had their influence with the military. The rulers also have announced their full support of African liberation movements although this is vague since Somalia is not close to the remaining Portuguese colonies or to the white supremacist nations of South Africa and Rhodesia. It is unlikely to take up cudgels against its neighbor Ethiopia despite the latter's more conservative portrait since the Ethiopians considerably outnumber the Somalis.

But the coup is more evidence of the difficulties for democracy in lands which have been arbitrarily ruled for centuries and where there is little or no tradition of representative government or individual responsibility for it.

Looking Backward

There's Only One Way to Vote!

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Oct. 28, 1869

"Men and Brethren!" Is it not time to have a change in the management of public affairs in Wisconsin?

If you think so, obey your conscience and vote the Democratic ticket!

Is it not time to drive the Regency out of Madison? The bribe-loving, corrupt Regency from the State Departments and the halls of legislation?

If you think so, stultify not the inward monitor, but vote the Democratic ticket and thus purify the Capitol!

Is it not time to cut down the State expenses by discharging the army of useless hangers-on who are paid for doing nothing? Is it not time to stop the terrible swindles perpetrated in behalf of one Church and one family in the Deaf and Dumb Asylum at Delavan, the waste in the Blind Asylum at Janesville, the glaring extravagance at the State Prison at Waupun — all of which is done with the knowledge and approval of Gov. (Lucius) Fairchild and the "Regency"?

If you must so acknowledge, what no truthful man can deny, respect the admonition of your conscience and vote the Democratic ticket.

Men and brethren! Go to the polls and vote like honest men. All we ask.

Twenty-two charter members established the Federated Women's Republican Club in Outagamie County at a meeting in the Candle Glow Tea Room Oct. 23. Officers elected were Mrs. Dan Steinberg Jr., president; Miss Marie Gossens, vice president; Mrs. Orville Babb, secretary, and Mrs. Gertrude Spurr, treasurer. Mrs. T. Wesley Tuttle, state president, was to present the charter to the group the next Tuesday.

Robert Knox, Albert Maas, Darrell Mueller and Lawrence Gangel, all members of the Seymour FFA chapter, were awarded the State Farmer degree for outstanding work. The Seymour chapter, with 80 members, was the third largest in Wisconsin.

Postmaster General Blount says the Post Office lost 1.3 billion last year — but it wasn't immediately clear whether he was talking about dollars or letters.

There's some thought that we ought to use our germ warfare weapons against the next epidemic of Asian flu.

Actually, a number of Republicans in Congress would like to support the President's Vietnam policy — if they could only find out what it is.

Bill Allowing Direct Legislation By Referendum Should be Pushed

People's Forum
Editor, Post-Crescent:

The preoccupation with Wisconsin's budgetary problems should not be permitted to divert attention from a critical reform before the legislature — a constitutional amendment which would provide the citizens of our state with the right of direct legislation.

That right, embodied in AJR-61, would permit the voters, through the use of the initiative and referendum, to initiate and approve a state law, completely bypassing the legislature. It would also give the voters the right to amend or repeal any law passed by the legislature. AJR-61, introduced by Assembly Speaker Harold V. Froehlich (R-Appleton), also would give the voters of Outagamie County and all other counties in the state, the right to initiate and approve, or to amend any county resolution or ordinance.

Experience in the 25 states in which voters have the right of initiative and referendum has demonstrated that the use of direct legislation does not replace the normal legislative process, but rather supplements it. The weapon of direct democracy can check an irresponsible or over-zealous legislature, prod and inactive legislature to action and, when necessary, permit the people to bypass an unresponsive legislature.

Occasionally, the initiative and referendum have been used for ends not consistent with the public good. But potential errors by the voters are not reason for refusing them the right of direct legislation any more than transgressions by a legislature are grounds for abolition of that body.

The Wisconsin Civil Liberties Union strongly supports AJR-61 and the principle of direct legislation because it strengthens democracy by permitting the individual citizen to participate directly in the process of that democracy. We hope that the readers of the Post-Crescent and their senators that they take positive action on this vital reform.

American Deserter Likes Home in Canada

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

As a past resident of Appleton, which means I was subjected to your paper for news, I would like to tell Appleton my story.

I am an American deserter in Canada. At the time I left the states, I held no emotion towards it as a country. I didn't want to leave my friends and family, but I'm sure they understood.

The reason I left wasn't a moral issue, like seems to be the trend now-days, for people coming to Canada. It was just the fact that I hated the service and what they tried to do to me and the people they had in their grips. I simply wanted to live my life the way I wanted to live it and by staying in the U. S. I had to play by their rules for freedom.

I feel sorry for you people, you're all living in a dream. I believed when I was in high school I had what was defined as freedom. That's because I had nothing to compare it to. I know now I was wrong.

Just use the draft for an example. The men between the ages of 18 and 26 are living, if they have any brains, in constant fear of being drafted, going threw hell, and dying in Vietnam, because kind-hearted, big brother America was willing to sacrifice someone else's life to save Vietnam from the clutches of communism and turn them on to their concept of freedom and democracy.

Now that I am in Canada, I would have a hard decision to make, if I had to make it between living in the states or Russia. Your personal freedom is about the same.

I stated before that at the time I left the states I held no emotion towards it, which is true, but now I do. I'm just not sure if it's fear or hate, or maybe I just feel sorry for you. I'm now in a country, after just three weeks, I can truthfully say I love it. I'm really glad that I'll be able to raise my children here.

If the American people could just see how close they are to destroying themselves and everybody else, they should wake up before it's too late. ... Larry Cardin

Surrender of Beer Industry to Higher Tax Was Well Timed

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Likely to emerge as the surprise of the year in state legislative politics was the surrender of the beer industry of Wisconsin on the issue of a tax boost for its product that has had more public discussion and generated more controversy than any related tax issue in modern times.

Times without number, and especially during the last decade, the big brewing industry, its thousands of allied entre-

Thus the drama of the moment last week when the Assembly by a vote of more than four to one at long last resolved to double the modest levy of one dollar a barrel, to what is proposed to be the modest level of two dollars if the Senate concurs, as probably is a safe conclusion. At long last, the giant had been felled.

Yet, as noted, the beer trades had known that sooner or later they would be required to face the reality of modern government financing, and their own vulnerability that was magnified by the constant and mostly hostile publicity, month after month, year after year.

In perspective, it is not difficult to imagine the rationalization. Wait for the best possible moment, and then give the signal of consent. That moment came with the push for a generally popular bill to support the ailing Marquette School of Medicine, which the legislature had been assured would surely collapse without such taxpayer succor. WORRIED ABOUT SHORT-AGE

Every informed person is worried about the existing shortage of medical practitioners, especially in the smaller towns and rural areas, and the certainty that it will worsen even if Marquette survives. So what more propitious opportunity to volunteer a graceful surrender and to avoid a probably ignominious defeat? Whatever else may be thought about them by their critics, the agents of the beer industry are not dim-witted, as they showed.

Instead of being lumped with a billion and a half dollars from a multitude of other sources in the anonymity of the state's coffers, the beer tax will be attached in the public consciousness to a highly popular, needful, and socially significant public cause. Moreover, the industry probably bought time, with respect to the probability of yet higher tax liability.

It was a public relations gesture par excellence, even if it may have reminded a few cynics and skeptics of the man who writes a modest check for a newspaper-sponsored charity, knowing in advance that he will be rewarded many times over with a front page notice of his generosity.

Make Love, Not War Has Psychic Tones

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"Make Love, Not War" is the best of the graffiti that today's youngsters have passed along to us. It is a new phrase representing an old truth — the ancient Greeks coupled the god of war with the goddess of love, to symbolize the strange relationship between the two.

Man is said to be essentially composed of an "erotic" and an "aggressive" drive. I believe it, and I also believe that an excess of the one indicates a deficiency of the other. Undue aggressiveness, in my view, is the result of a lack of the ability to love or be loved.

If there were some way we could examine the private lives of public men — with a sort of psychic X ray — I think we would discover that the loving faculty in them had been damned up and diverted into channels that ran toward power and position and conquest.

It was easy enough to see without such a device in the case of a Hitler, who had no personal emotive life, and in whom the excitement of hate evidently gave the same thrill.

Chess Advised For Youngsters

CHICAGO (AP) — Chess, as a game, appeals to youngsters and oldsters alike.

A manufacturer says it has been used in many elementary schools not only to teach arithmetic, but drawing, spelling, history and early social science.

A child between 4 and 8 years old is ready to learn to play chess.

The firm, Western Publishing Co., Inc., Racine, Wis., says the game was invented centuries ago to entertain and challenge Indian Rajahs.

Chess, which once required 150 to 200 moves, now can be played in about 60 moves. It helps to lengthen the child's attention span through concentration as well as develop perception through move relationships.

that love gives to normal people. I suspect much the same was true of Napoleon, despite his amorous adventures; he lacked the gift of intimacy, and while he could "possess" women, it was only as possessions, not as persons. It is no historical accident that leaders are almost always worse than the people they lead, or that they have a power to summon their subjects' worst instincts for cruelty that is far greater than their power to call upon the people's vast capacity for good will and generosity.

We find the same tendency among children, where good at least average boys will follow the worst of their number — who appeal to their suppressed and forbidden feelings — but will rarely follow the best of their number. Virtue seems individual, while vice is collective.

Kimberly Youth Found Delinquent
A 16-year-old Kimberly youth was found delinquent and was placed in the custody of the State Department of Health and Social Services Monday during an appearance in Outagamie County Juvenile Court.
The youth, who will be sent to the State School for Boys at Wales, was uncontrollable, according to the Outagamie County Department of Social Services, under whose supervision he had been placed.
The boy was placed under supervision June 30, for one year, after he broke into Kimberly High School and took his parents' car without consent.
The court was told Monday that the boy ignores rules and regulations set down for him by his caseworker, and has been expelled from school because of disobedience and violations of school rules.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, 331 E. Commercial St., Appleton, and Mrs. Louis Hansen, Clintonville.

Greenville Halloween Party Stated Friday
GREENVILLE — The Greenville Civic Club will sponsor its annual Halloween party Friday evening, in the Municipal building. Children will be judged for the best costumes, treats will be handed out and a movie will be shown.

The committee is Norman Julius, chairman, with Peter Bekker, Ronald Bunkelman, Rudy SPREEMAN, Don Buman, and James Wunderlich.

"The only way to age a brandy is to age it in oak."

Ask any expert. One sure way to make a brandy smooth is to age it in oak. That's why we age Almadén Brandy in oak barrels. Little oak barrels. We keep it in touch with the wood, because that's how a brandy gets mel-low and creamy and smooth. Try Almadén Brandy. You'll see: A little barrel makes a big difference.

Almadén. Little-oak-barrel brandy.

'Marcus Welby' Scores Hit for ABC Network

Likable Robert Young Credited With Getting Top Rating for Medic Series

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The television season is still a bit young for predictions, but most observers agree on one thing: "Marcus Welby, M.D." is a hit. The reviews were good, the ratings have been excellent. The medical series, along with "Mod Squad" and "Movie of the Week" has given ABC command of Tuesday night for the first time in its history.

What makes a hit? Critics say the time slot is all-important, and "Welby" is doubly blessed by facing CBS news shows and NBC's weakest movies. On the more positive side, "Welby" is modern, well-produced and sharply written.

But the essential element of the show's success may well be the enormously likable and empathetic star, Robert Young.

Almost Retired
Most producers thought Bob Young would never return to a television series. He had been through a distinguished career in films, had five successful years in "Father Knows Best" on TV, plus a hapless season in "Window on Main Street." It didn't figure that at his age—now 62—Young would be interested in another series.

"Everybody thought I was too rich to work any more," said

Skelton Spoo On Wayne's 40th Year

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8:30 Channels 2-7 — The Red Skelton Show has another feature that is both in-and-out of the show's usual format. Red celebrates the 40th anniversary of John Wayne's motion picture career in general jest, song and spoof. The feature is a takeoff of "True Grit" with Red as one-eyed Poison Pete and Wayne as the one-eyed sheriff.

9-10 Channel 2 — The featured segment of 60 Minutes is a conversation with Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, the recently resigned Bishop of Rochester (N.Y.), speaking on the contemporary Catholic controversies.

8-10 Channel 5 — "Don't Just Stand There" is a pleasant little mystery farce on Tuesday Night At the Movies, more enjoyable to Mary Tyler Moore fans than to others. Robert Wagner co-stars as a adventurer-writer, caught up in a plot to smuggle watch movements. When he gets trapped, help comes from Miss Moore, who says she will help him out if he will help finish a sex novel.

7:30-8 Channel 11 — The Movie of the Week is also the pilot for a potential series, and it looks like a good one. It is "The Young Lawyers" and is based on a practice of allowing student lawyers to gain experience by doing actual courtroom defending. Jason Evers stars as a successful attorney who drops his practice to help such young men through a legal aid organization called Neighborhood Law Office. Tom Fielding, Judy Pace and Zalman King are the young staffers under his wing when they take the case of two unemployed musicians accused of robbing a taxi-driver.

7-7:30 Channel 5 — The star of The Debbie Reynolds Show has a Hollywood nickname, "The Iron Butterfly." Tonight, she twists that around to "The Paper Butterfly," which is a switch on both the book "Paper Tiger" and the operatic "Butterfly." As in the book, Debbie decides to become a lady wrestler so she can write a story on the sport, and a Japanese lady wrestler at that.

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — Langer has quite a turn-about from its usual active plots to a thoughtful one. It concerns Murdoch's birthday and the three presents bought for him: Scott's stereopticon, Jelly's sow and Johnny's rare rifle. The three have stories connected to them.

7:30-8 Channel 5 — Julia has a stereotyped script about a teenage boy who falls for the older woman and is serious enough to propose. He also expects to be accepted.

Uncomfortable Chair Knowles' Best Defense

line for new furniture, but news secretary Steven Boyle says he's happy with his, especially an uncomfortable rattan backed chair.

Boyle who occasionally has long-winded visitors, says, "no body can sit in that chair more than five minutes at a time."

Old Favorites Provide New Kicks

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal drug expert says youngsters in some parts of the country have taken to injecting peanut butter and mayonnaise into their veins as a substitute for narcotics.

What to Do — Where to Go

Cinema I — Oliver! at 8 p.m.

Viking Theater — Midnight Cowboy at 6:30 and 9 p.m.

Appleton Theater — Shame at 7 and 9 p.m.

Neenah Theater — Popi at 7 p.m. Once Upon a Time West at 9 p.m.

Time Theater, Oshkosh — Midnight Cowboy at 7 p.m. and 9:20.

Plaza Theater, Oshkosh — Journey to the Far Side of the Sun at 6:30 and 10 p.m. & Golden Men, once at 8:30.

Holiday on Ice — Opens Tuesday, Brown County Arena, Green Bay. Plays at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; 2:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday; 5 p.m. Sunday.

In several documented cases the result has been death, Ernest A. Caraballo Jr., a lawyer-pharmacist in the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, has said.

Caraballo said the information that peanut butter and mayonnaise would send users "on a little trip" was contained in an underground recipe book purporting to outline "culinary escapes from reality."

Other recent fads, he said, included the use of paragonic, cleaning fluid, the local anesthetic ethylchloride and freon, the pressurized propellant gas in aerosols.

Caraballo said users of narcotic substitutes confused the bizarre and toxic reactions with the so-called "high" provided by such drugs as heroin or marijuana. He cited the smoking of dried banana skins, a fad of a couple of years ago, as an example.

Frank Gulich, a narcotics bureau official stationed in Chicago, said the underground "cook books" usually sell for about $1 and often give the formulas for preparing drugs such as LSD.

Drug users, Gulich said, are "always looking for new drugs that won't be a violation of the law."

Caraballo and Gulich appeared at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Caraballo urged hospital and control centers to help the narcotics bureau by reporting new fads among users of drugs or substitutes.

"Hopefully, with this type of information, we can eliminate the necessity of waiting for widespread manifestation of a particular form of abuse," he said.

He did not specify the areas where the peanut butter-mayonnaise fad had cropped up, or how many deaths had been caused.

Young Hobby Club Use Any Plastic Bracelet Brooch to Frame Anyone

BY CAPPY DICK

To make a large brooch like the one the girl is wearing in figure 4 is easy to do if you have a plastic bracelet that can be used as the frame.

Glue the bracelet to a piece of cardboard (figure 1). When the glue has dried, cut away the excess cardboard. The cardboard will serve as the back of the brooch.

To the concave, or front side, glue a cutout picture of your favorite movie star or recording singer (figure 2).

This completes the brooch and it is ready to be worn by pinning it to your dress as the girl has done.

If you have several plastic bangles that can be used for this purpose, it would be fun to make several brooches, each with a different star's picture on it.

Dining Rooms Are by Nature Sociable because they are gathering places for families and centers for entertaining. In the room, above, a new type of carpeting, a duo-dye Avlin from Aldon Industries, in soft shades of gold, provides contrast to the elegantly simple dining room table, chairs and break-front from Henredon. The sideboard is a clear lucite, supported by antique iron brackets in black as a foil to the antique Coromandel screen.

Dining Rooms Back in Favor

There's a popular "sit-in" these days that doesn't sponsor any cause. It's the sit-in in the sit-down dining room where the snack-on-the-lap type of serving meals to family or guests has been replaced.

Thanks partially to the rash of gourmet cooks who want to show off their handiwork against a suitable background, and partially to the general decision that the amenities and rites of graceful meals needn't be reserved for the affluent, the dining room is again a gathering place for the family and a center for entertaining.

In keeping with its restored status as a showplace background for fine food and stimulating conversation — or even to reflect a mood of repose to offset the pressures of our busy times — there's a new individuality and personality in dining rooms today.

Imaginative Room

Happily, paint — perhaps in some of the new, deeper shades — or a distinctive wallpaper pattern or mural — can be budget-priced starts for an imaginative room. Then there are such ideas as ready-made trellises — obtained at most any lumber yard — or today's styrofoam beams — rough hewn or classic in line — that can be employed to define a dining area where the creation of a full dining room is not possible. Fabric, lining one or more walls and repeated in pads for dining chairs, is another means of introducing color, pattern and distinction to a room.

As important as the color or colors chosen for the walls is the choice of the "underfoot background," the carpet. Consider a solid color carpet as the keynote of your color scheme, or choose from a melding of colors, such as the two-tone effects.

'With It' Room

If your room already has wood floors, an area rug, in colors to harmonize or contrast with your walls, could be a handsome way of transforming the stuffy and starched look typical of formal treatments of the past to a room that's informally "with it" for today.

Mirrors lining an entire wall to seemingly double space and chandeliers and sconces to create a dramatic mood are other ways of imparting personality to the dining room.

Furnishings, too, can escape the humdrum with a little thought and effort. Granted that table and chairs to match can be purchased if the budget allows, there's also drama in teaming a table with chairs of another period, or coupling a table with chairs that have been painted in a color picked from a favorite painting in the room, or chosen to match a flower which will later be emphasized in a centerpiece. There are tables in the grand manner or there are tables that are actually old legs, topped with a modern slab of oak or glass; there are tables for the smaller room that start out as a table for two, and expand, if needed, with leaves. There is even the old-time drop-leaf table, which can be pushed against the wall when not in use, and can come out of its corner when the situation demands.

For the homemaker up-tight for space, there's even the drop-down-from-the-wall table, concealed, when not in use, in a wall-hung cabinet. A painting, hung on cabinet front, helps to hide the extra-curricular duties of the piece.

Furnishings for your dining room today can fit any mood or theme. But its real measure of success is how efficiently it serves you as hostess — whether for family or guests.

Your Problems

Odds Are Child Will Distinguish Himself

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 23-year-old daughter married her boss last year. This was Fern's first marriage, his third. We didn't say anything (it wouldn't have done any good) but we weren't happy about it. The man is 51 years old.

Last week Fern announced that she is pregnant. My son-in-law, who is only two years younger than my husband, is thrilled. This will be his first child. I am wondering if the baby will be mentally all right. The age difference worries me. Do you know anything about the offspring of marriages when the father is considerably older than the mother? Please check. — Honolulu

Dear Hon: An English scientist, A. F. Hutton, selected 1,000 illustrious people from a standard encyclopedia. He discovered that an unusually high percentage of those who have distinguished themselves had young mothers and old fathers.

Dr. Hutton claims that when the father is over 45, the odds are two to one that his child will be a person of achievement. When the father is over 60 years of age, the odds are ten to one.

The medical experts with whom I consulted were not concerned with the mentality of these children. They raised another question. Will these older men who start young families live long enough to rear them?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have an embarrassing problem that I cannot discuss with a clergyman, doctor or friend. It's my in-laws. They come to our home every other Sunday and they have yet to bring a gift for our children. We don't expect anything expensive, you understand, but some small toy or trinket would make a big hit with the kids.

Yesterday our five-year-old asked, "How come Jimmy and Sue (the kids next door) always get gifts from their grandpa and our grandma and grandpa never bring us anything?" Then Beth, our seven-year-old asked, "Don't Grandma and Grandpa love us?" What shall I tell them? — Needing Answers

Dear Needing: Tell them "Gifts are not proof of love — it's how people treat each other than counts. The fact that Grandma and Grandpa come to see you is proof enough that they love you — and it should be gift enough, too."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You hear from so many nuts I thought you might like a letter from a mature person who handled an illicit love affair with finesse, had his fling, got it out of his system, and no one was hurt.

I met an attractive girl through my business. She was inexperienced, love-starved and vulnerable. I saw an opportunity to perform a useful service and, at the same time, add a little zest to my life. I talked it over with my wife and she understood. I agreed not to embarrass her or the children. Our rendezvous were private and no one ever saw me with the girl.

After three months the fire was out. I was happy to return to my wife on a full-time basis. We are now closer than ever. See, it can work. — No Fuss No Muss

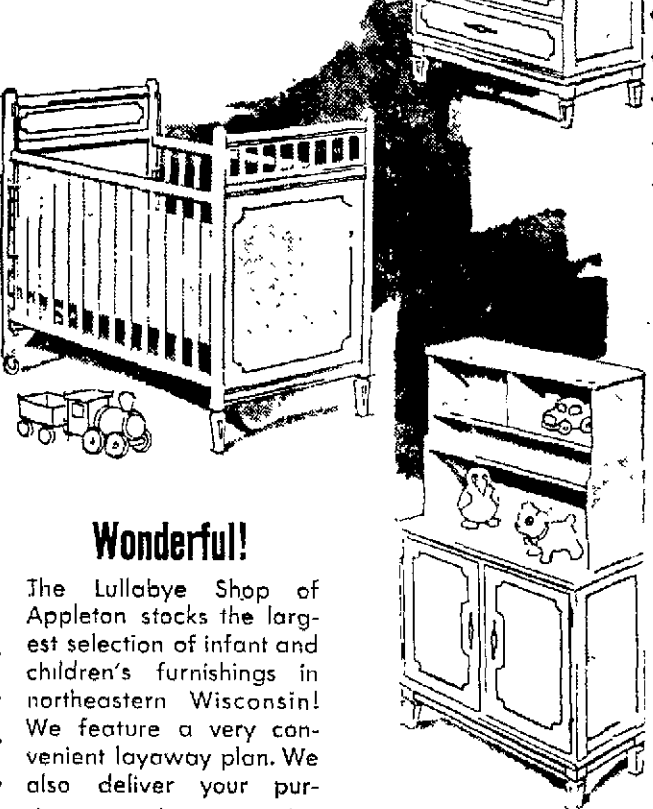

Dear N.F.N.M.: If you're looking for a good conduct medal you came to the wrong place. Just because your wife didn't hang herself in the attic is no sign she wasn't deeply hurt. The prize goes to her, not you, Dummy.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with — but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1969)

New Vaccines To Foil Snakes

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — A plastic surgeon is working on a vaccine that may one day protect people from lethal snakebites.

Dr. Clifford C. Snyder of the University of Utah has successfully tested on dogs and monkeys a vaccine giving protection against the venom of certain rattlesnakes. Gary Hunter, a medical student, is working with Dr. Snyder on other vaccines against other species of poisonous snakes.

Rattlesnakes, copperheads and cottonmouths account for nearly all of the more than 7,000 snakebite cases reported each year. Fifteen to 20 people die of snakebite annually and many more must have fingers or legs amputated.

The Old Song, "Fly Me to the Moon," materializes for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Froehlich, at right, who were among Riverview guests to make the flight Saturday evening.

Riverview Rockets Through Space To Visit the Moon

Following the directions, Mrs. Henry Bailey takes the contamination test while her husband watches. At right, prepared for any medical emergency enroute to the moon are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dutcher who discuss the voyage with fellow travelers, Dr. and Mrs. Delton Engstrom. (Post-Crescent Photos)

These days anything is possible—even a trip to the moon and back again all in one evening.

That's the way Riverview Country Club billed Saturday's Harvest Moon Dinner Dance. Blast off time was 6:30 p.m. when everyone buckled up for an incredibly speedy flight to the Sea of Tranquility, where lunar liquids awaited.

The astronauts later reported that the Man in the Moon is a woman by the name of Mrs. Elaine Fetting, who greeted them with "moon songs."

Later Joe Hurlbert, club chef, served a special Moon Meal followed by dancing before the travelers returned to their dry ice propelled rocket for the trip home.

Chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Evans, were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dutcher, Dr. and Mrs. Denton P. Engstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Froehlich, Mr. and Mrs. William Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Swaby, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Davis.

Everything's A-OK for Riverview's flight to the moon, but just to make sure, E. C. Evans peers into the rocket at the entrance before giving the go ahead signal to his wife.

Liz Gets Cartier Diamond

NEW YORK (AP) — The chance of a brief glimpse at the 69.42-carat diamond actor Richard Burton bought for his wife, Elizabeth Taylor, drew thousands of people to Cartier's, the Fifth Avenue jewelry store, Saturday.

A store spokesman said about 7,000 people had paraded through the posh main gallery of Cartier's between 9:30 a.m. when the stone went on display, and 4 p.m. "And," added the spokesman, "the line's gotten longer since 3:30 p.m."

Robert Kenmore, chairman of the board of Kenmore Corp., owner of Cartier's, bought the stone—which is set in a ring with two half-moon diamonds totaling 2.92 carats—at auction Thursday for $1.05 million.

Burton, whose agent was at the auction, but stopped at $1 million, bought the stone from Cartier's Friday for an undisclosed amount.

Women Invited To Participate In UW Study

A project is underway at the Fox Valley Campus of the University of Wisconsin to discover what local women would like in the way of college courses or preparation for employment.

Marge Engelman of the campus Office of Student Affairs is inviting women from the Fox Valley area to meet with her and discuss their educational and vocational needs.

"Some women feel the financial need to take jobs to help put their children through college," says Mrs. Engelman. "On the other hand, some want to take a course just for fun, not necessarily seeking employment."

Mrs. Engelman will be gathering information not only on what types of courses are desired, but about hours that are most convenient, needs for guidance and counseling, and other problems women must solve to get back to school.

All local women who are interested in helping in this study are urged by Mrs. Engelman to contact her at the Fox Valley Campus. Small group sessions are being scheduled.

Dr. Siegel Assistant Dean At OSU School of Nursing

Dr. Hildegard J. Siegel, former associate professor in the Marquette University Graduate School of Nursing, has been named assistant dean of the Oshkosh State University (OSU) School of Nursing. Dr. Siegel, a native of Milwaukee, was graduated from the Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing. She received graduate degrees from Marquette University and the University of Minnesota.

Miss Siegel, who has 25 years of experience including community health positions in both voluntary and public health agencies, joined the Marquette University faculty in 1964 in the undergraduate program of nursing, where she taught community health nursing. She also developed and was associate director of the university's first Peace Corps program for Brazil. After taking an educational leave in 1965 to earn her Ph.D. at the University of Minnesota, Dr. Siegel returned to Marquette in 1967 as a member of the graduate school faculty. Since that time, she has conducted seminars in nursing research, readings and research and directed student thesis work.

The new assistant dean is a member of the American Nurses Association, National League for Nursing, American Public Health Association, Wisconsin Public Health Association, American Association for Higher Education, Sigma Theta Tau national honorary society of nursing and Pi Lambda Theta national honorary and professional association for women in education. She was named president-elect of the Wisconsin League of Nursing in 1969 and of the Milwaukee League for Nursing in 1968.

Dr. Siegel is a member of the nursing committee of the Wisconsin Regional Medical Program and is a research consultant to the nurse utilization project being conducted by St. Mary's Hospital, Milwaukee, funded by the Wisconsin Regional Medical Program. She is also a consultant to the College

Wed 60 Years

CHILTON — Mr. and Mrs. George J. Bruckner, 53 E. Grand St., observed their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday with a family gathering at home. They were married Oct. 28, 1909 at St. Mary Catholic Church.

Mr. Bruckner is a retired railroad freight agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad Co.

The couple has eight children: Mrs. J. Harvey Schwartz, Alfred, Arno and George, all of Chilton; Donald, serving with the Army in Germany; Mrs. Chester Bonk and Robert, Milwaukee, and Mrs. Alfred Woelfel, New Holstein. They also have 32 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Weakest Hand May Be Useful

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If you eat your oatmeal and brush your teeth you may never hold as weak a hand as North's. It's just as unlikely as holding 13 cards of one suit. But if you do hold this ghastly Yarborough, let's hope that you're lucky enough to have a partner who can make the most of it.

When this hand was actually played, the dummy wasn't quite as weak as the North hand shown today. North really held a couple of sixes and a seven, but I changed a few of his cards in the hope of winning the Pulitzer Prize for drama.

South won with the king of diamonds, drew exactly one round of trumps and then shrewdly led his lowest spade. East won with the eight of spades and hopefully returned a club, which was as good as anything else he could do.

Declarer took the ace of clubs, drew a second round of trumps and then cashed the ace and king of spades, holding his breath as he did so.

Best Chance

Declarer knew he had left a trump out, but his play was correct. There was no danger if each opponent had started with three spades. If either opponent had more than three spades, South's only chance was to ruff his last spade in the dummy. This was possible if the player with length in spades also had the last trump.

South's gamble worked well. West couldn't ruff the king of spades, and East had to follow suit. South ruffed his last spade in dummy, returned to his hand with a club and only then drew the last trump. He could then claim the rest.

South couldn't afford to draw two rounds of trumps before giving up a spade. East would return a third trump and would eventually win a second spade trick.

South likewise couldn't afford to take one top spade before losing a spade trick. East would happily lead a third spade, and West would overruff the dummy.

If this doesn't win a Pulitzer Prize, I'll sell the movie rights cheap. An Oscar would look nice on my bar.

With-It Homes of Seventies to Have Sequestered Settings

HIGH POINT, N.C. — The noise level in American cities has doubled in the past 14 years and the creeping problem of noise pollution threatens the quality of American life, according to Ed. Waltemath, who is responsible for the development of products for architectural interiors at Lees carpets, a division of Burlington Industries.

Noise, Mr. Waltemath says works against human comfort and health in two ways. It can cause physical deterioration,

"If we don't turn off some of the sounds that bombard us," he continued, "we run the risk of becoming a generation of noise freaks."

Automobiles, trucks, trains, jet planes, lawn mowers, air compressors are among the most obvious sources of noise pollution. He urged industry to grant priority to muffling this kind of man-made noise.

Noise Control

He said in a statement issued before the opening here Friday of the Southern Furniture Market that government and industry should act together to create an improved environment through a positive, realistic program of noise control. As people be-

In the home, appliances, air conditioning units, fans, radio and television contribute to the din. Even the clatter of pots and pans and the rattle of dishes becomes annoying. Paper-thin walls between apartments allow sounds — including family arguments — to slip from one living unit to the next and this has a multiplier effect on whatever tension may already exist in the home.

Two Methods

Mr. Waltemath suggested we control noise in the home by suppressing it at its source and by finishing interior surfaces in materials that deaden sound, reducing the noise level within an area and cutting "Tomorrow's environment will be sequestered. The super-with-it interior of the Seventies will have that sealed-off look."

Materials that will be basic ingredients of the sequestered environment are already on

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM

Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A feather-stitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available at H. C. Prange Co. and other stores with fashion spirit.

Council Asked to OK Police Station Search

Nov. 15-16 Moratorium Antiwar Parades Receive Approval, Not Endorsement

By recommending approval of permits for three antiwar parades next month, a committee of the City Council stressed Monday night that activities at the end of the parade route are not necessarily being endorsed.

The Public Safety Committee approved the applications from sponsors connected with groups at Lawrence University who are organizing a second moratorium against the war in Vietnam.

Two parades are planned for Nov. 15 and another Nov. 16. The first parade will follow a route from Erb Park to the Lawrence campus where services are planned at the Memorial Chapel. Another will travel from the chapel to the Outagamie Courthouse where an all-night demonstration is planned. The third, on Nov. 16, will return in the morning to the chapel for final services.

Ald. John Ayers (12th), committee chairman, said he was concerned that approval of the parade permit might be construed as approval to use the courthouse property.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff met the concern by writing a stipulation declaring the committee was recommending approval of the parade permit only. Wolff also amended the permit for the parade from Erb Park, changing the route to use State Street rather than Bennett as requested by the applicant.

The council will act on the applications Nov. 5, when it also will receive petitions signed by citizens during the last war moratorium on Oct. 15.

In other action, the committee endorsed a suggestion by Wolff to employ off-duty policemen on a voluntary basis, at regular rather than overtime pay rates, to fill vacancies in the department.

Wolff made the suggestion partly in response to recent requests by an Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce Committee for additional police officers assigned to juvenile matters. Wolff said by filling the vacancies on the force he could clear the backlog of juvenile cases and assign men to other duties related to juvenile behavior, such as patrolling dances and other young people's activities.

Thomas Schomisch, chairman of the Chamber's anti-smuggling committee, said the group finds the proposal excellent, since it will provide the additional officers "without costing the city a cent."

Joint Effort With County Still Alive

Prompted by Police Chief Earl O. Wolff, the Appleton City Council's public safety committee asked Monday for authority to look at "sites and/or buildings" for a new police station.

The search, if authority is granted by the council and Board of Public Works, might or might not include renewed consideration of a joint effort with Outagamie County.

Ald. John Ayers (12th), committee chairman, said the joint effort still contains a "spark of life," though it has seemed dead or nearly dead several times in recent weeks.

The police department currently occupies "temporary" quarters in a renovated automotive supply store.

At first, Ayers reacted to Wolff's suggestion by saying he thought that starting to look for a new site for a police station might deal a death blow to a cooperative effort by the city and county.

Revive Activity

Then he shifted his opinion, conceding that action by the city might also fan the spark on the county board and help revive joint activity.

Ayers has been the chief spokesman for the city in recent discussions with county officials. The topic most recently has been revived through efforts of Appleton supervisors on the county board.

Officially, the county is moving ahead with plans to build an annex to the courthouse to house law enforcement, jail and courtroom facilities.

Public Referendum?

Ayers said he had heard rumors that if the county did go ahead with the project, there is a movement under way to bring the project to a public referendum. In that case, Ayers said, voters would likely reject the proposal.

The committee's request for authorization will be acted on next week by the council and if approved will go to the Board of Public Works, which normally handles public building projects and would have to delegate its authority to the committee.

Ald. George Reynolds (7th) suggested asking to have the study include both police headquarters and a new city hall. Ayers said he didn't care to consider a city hall at present, but he added that the council and works board could consider adding to the authorization.

5-Year Program

School Board Favors $5.5 Million Spending

An updated five-year capital improvements plan, totaling $5.5 million, was approved Monday night by the Appleton Board of Education. The plan calls for eight new buildings and additions to be bonded between 1970 and 1974.

The major change, the board of education was told, is that the Appleton Elementary School addition was moved in favor of a new building in the central elementary school, which it was felt could absorb enrollment increases.

The elementary school is scheduled for bonding in 1970 and opening in September of 1971.

The plan also calls for improving the three elementary schools in the Town of Grand Chute. Parents and administrators of the schools — Woodlawn, Twin Willows and Badger — have pressured the board in recent months for improvements.

Saying that the board should adopt the plan immediately, board member John Stevens said, "It is an excellent study. It answers the questions about the outlying schools."

Each school will receive about $200,000 in upgrading and additions, and then be made into a primary unit (grades kindergarten-3). Grades 4-6 then will be moved to in-city schools.

The plan also calls for a $1.2 million elementary school at the Colony Oaks site, to be bonded for in 1972 and opened a year later, and a central city elementary school, to be bonded for in 1974 and opened in 1975.

With current addition and remodeling to Roosevelt and Wilson junior highs and Appleton High School — West, the secondary level should face no serious enrollment pressure with the current 800 to 1,000 per year student increase, the board was told.

The revised five-year plan will be turned over to mayor George Buckley and the fiscal control board for their consideration. The annual updating was requested some time ago by Buckley and other officials.

Board members talked little Monday night on the only slightly changed plan, indicating they had confidence in their site selection committee, which urged adoption of it two weeks ago.

At that time, Charles Buchanan, a committee member, said the capital improvements would not have to match enrollment increases, as in the past, because the district is a little ahead in classroom building.

Planners Warning

Older Home Maintenance Is Crucial to Regional Housing

The region's housing shortage could become more acute in a decade if home owners fail to build over 71,000 housing units, which include apartments, by 1980. In that year, he estimated, about 14,300 units would be deteriorated and in need of rejuvenation; 4,297 dilapidated, possibly needing replacement;

He said Outagamie and Winnebago counties have a shortage of "good quality low-rental housing units." A low vacancy rate also indicated the urban regions generally need housing, Rieckmann said.

Study Outline

Rieckmann began his study last spring as the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development pushed for all regional planning groups to undertake housing studies. The outline of the scope of his study was sent to the State Department of Local Affairs and Development last week, Rieckmann said.

He is preparing the regional program design for the nine counties, which also include Waushara, Shawano, Waupaca and Langlade.

Rieckmann said he would have the design ready by Nov. 15, in time for the Nov. 18 regional housing conference set for Appleton.

Knowles Still Has Hope for Tarr Program

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles says he hasn't abandoned hope for legislative adoption of the Tarr task force's shared-tax program.

"Where there's life, there's hope," the governor remarked Monday.

The Republican-controlled Senate, despite appeals from the GOP governor, rejected the Tarr bill last week. Some Democratic legislators accused Knowles of not having worked hard enough for the measure.

The governor leaves Sunday for a 24-day trade mission to Latin America. Asked if he thinks his absence might have a bearing on the Legislature's activity, Knowles said: "I don't know why it would."

Jury Deliberates Dirty Book Case

A Circuit Court jury of six men and six women early this afternoon began deliberations in the second obscene book sale trial in two weeks.

Attorneys, citing "community prejudice," were unsuccessful in their attempts to change trial location from Thomas Hamm, 27 1192 Adams Beach Road, Clintonville, who is charged with selling four counts of obscene book sales, and Errol J. Simpson, 32 317 W. College Ave., who places one felony count.

Hamm, until August, operated the "Book Nook, 902 W. Wisconsin Ave., and Simpson was a clerk at the store when the alleged offenses occurred between April 19 and June 10. The business place now is known as the Appleton Book Store and reportedly is operated by Simpson.

In moving for a change of venue Monday, attorney Allan Cain displayed an Oct. 22 story in The Post-Crescent about two Appleton men who were each fined $100 on disorderly conduct charges brought after they ran the Appleton Book Store Oct. 15. The men contended they took the action because of the type of books being sold there.

Every member of the jury panel indicated they had read the article. Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell said he also had read it. He denied the motion.

Seven of the same jurors who on Oct. 16 found another Appleton bookstore owner guilty of selling obscene magazines are sitting on the Hamm and Simpson case.

Chief witnesses called by Dist. Atty. James R. Long were Dr. Franklin Utech and Thomas A. Brady, both art instructors at Oshkosh State University, and Dr. Peter Fritzell, assistant professor of English at Lawrence University. Parnell allowed three men to testify as experts in their fields.

Expert Testimony

Utech and Brady said none of the magazines in question had any artistic value. Both men said they had painted and drawn figures.

Utech, during cross examination, said the human figure is a "form of art," but he said the pictures in the magazines purchased at the Book Nook were not art. He termed the contents "trash."

Fritzell said the two magazines that contained written material had no literary value.

Det. Richard Jirschele of Appleton Police Department testified Monday that he purchased all 11 magazines from the Book Nook.

Cain, who represents Simpson, and Atty. Steve Beyer of New London, who represents Hamm, called only one witness. That was Hamm, who said there was

65.9 Per Cent of Goal United Fund Extends Campaign One Week

With only 65.9 per cent of the $380,000 goal in the United Fund campaign has been extended by one week to Nov. 6.

The extension was announced at a report meeting Monday by Robert Cisna, United Fund director, who said, "We were hoping for at least 75 per cent of the goal by now."

So far, 250,489 has been gathered. Of the nine divisions only four have surpassed 50 per cent of their goal. Two below 20 per cent.

In a breakdown, the construction division has raised 90.1 per cent, or $15,366 of the $17,000 goal; large firms, 81.5 per cent, or $195,534 of $240,000;

Professional, 43.4 per cent, or $7,815 of $18,000; general solicitation, 50.5 per cent, or $18,500 of $36,500; industrial, 32.7 per cent, or $3,102 of $9,500; commercial, 29.1 per cent, or $7,000 of $24,000;

Public civil, 25.4 per cent, or $7,886 of $31,000; mercantile, 19.5 per cent, or $3,225 of $16,500; and general business, 14.1 per cent, or $325 of $2,300.

Two firms, Appleton Coated Paper Co., and Aid Association for Lutherans, are responsible for raising a total of 15.5 per cent of the $380,000 goal.

Appleton Coated employee and firm gifts come to $32,312, or 8.5 per cent of the total goal while AAL gifts come to $26,000, or 7 per cent.

"Instead of dragging the campaign out, we would have liked to complete it in October, but the envelopes are coming in too slowly," said Cisna.

"However, increases are showing up in almost all of the envelopes that are returned," he added.

Inquest Probable in Traffic Death of Karen E. Lom

Police announced today that an inquest will be held on the Oct. 16 death of Karen E. Lom, 30, of Appleton. The inquest will be held at the Outagamie County Courthouse today.

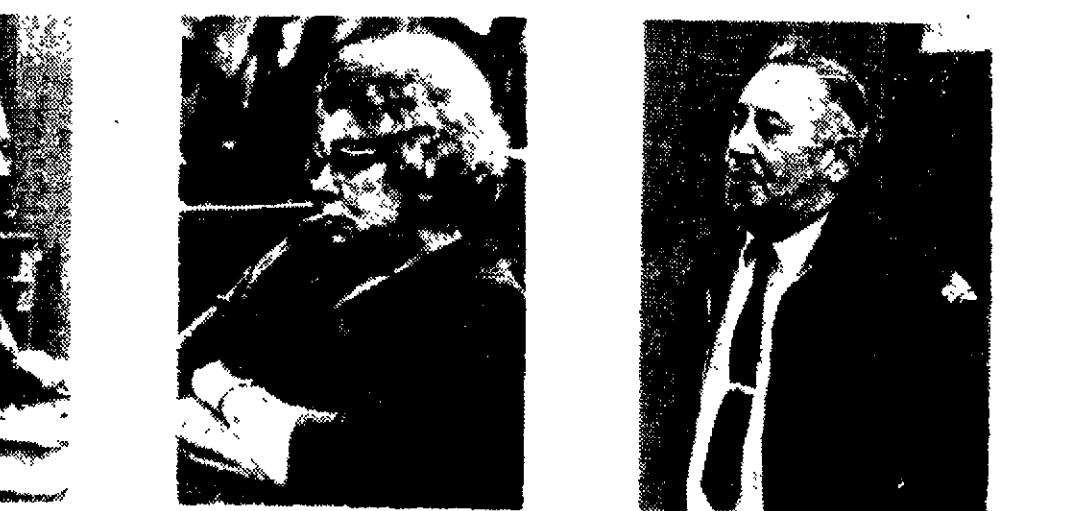

Thomas L. Buehler, county coroner, said the inquest will be held at 10 p.m. at the coroner's office. Buehler said the charge today against the anticipated inquest was that Lom was killed by a car that collided with a tree.

The driver's attorney's office withdrew the charge today, saying the anticipated inquest would be set after evidence is returned from the State Crime Laboratory. Kemps also said the inquest probably would be held with a coroner's jury.

Buehler escaped injury in the 10 p.m. crash. He is free on bond.

The Plight of Bus Service in Appleton was discussed Monday night at a public hearing conducted by the City Council's public safety committee. At left, Ald. George Schwarzbauer, Ald. John Ayers, center, and Clerk Eldon Broehm listen to comments. Mrs.

Further Study of Bus Line Subsidy Sought

A City Council committee has, for the present, laid aside consideration of a city subsidy for Fox River Bus Lines and instead will ask the council next week to appoint a committee to carry studies further.

The action by the Public Safety Committee came Monday night after Dale Erickson, an accountant for the bus firm, said there is "no great urgency" to the request for city financial assistance.

The special study committee would include the city attorney, finance director, an alderman and representatives of the school board, Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, the bus line, bus firms in Kaukauna and Oshkosh and the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG).

It was the COG, in a report requested several months ago by Mayor George Buckley, that recommended appointing the special committee.

Possible Grant

Under the committee's sponsorship, according to COG transportation planner Jerome Starling, the city might be able to receive a study grant to finance further investigation. Starling estimated that the study might cost $15,000, with the city paying one-third and the federal government providing two-thirds. Starling advised the study, including federal grant approval, could take up to a year to complete.

The committee discussed the COG report after a 45-minute public hearing attended by about 40 persons. A variety of opinions, all generally favoring continued bus service for the city, were voiced by private citizens and representatives of organizations and public agencies.

The Wisconsin State Employment Service, represented by Charles Malmberg, 1030 W. Glendale reported that it relies on the bus line as a means of transportation for persons placed in jobs by the agency.

Don Stone, Chamber of Commerce manager, reported that his organization supported the COG suggestion. Besides forming the committee, COG urged a promotional campaign by local business interests to encourage greater use of bus transportation.

Stone said the Chamber favored the study first and has not adopted a position on the promotional idea.

Alternatives Listed

As alternatives to the firm's request for a $20,000 subsidy to maintain present levels of service, rate increases and reductions in service were suggested.

Erickson said a rate increase had not been considered, since it is believed that rates above the current 25 cent fares would further reduce patronage. On reducing the number of buses or routes, he added, "If we start to curtail our service, then it is a sign that our business is going to be eventually reduced to zero."

Erickson also said the firm had received comments from persons suspicious that the request for a subsidy was an attempt to enhance the saleability of the firm, with the recent death of the owner, Olaf Lundquist.

Erickson said the widow and daughter of the owner are now operating the line and are neither contemplating going out of business nor selling out. "It has been locally owned and operated and we intend to keep it that way," Erickson said for the family.

In response to a question from the audience, committee members calculated that to provide the requested $20,000 subsidy would mean an additional 10 cents in property tax on each $1,000 worth of property at assessed value.

Industry Up in Arms Over State Tax on Fuel, Power

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The dispute about state tax policy which has dominated the long deliberations of the Legislature this year, and pushed aside many other major subjects, is not yet concluded. Leading legislators are preparing to ask for a repeal of the 4 per cent general sales tax as it applies to fuels and power used in Wisconsin industry. There is an apparent response to some complaints from the industrial sector that the tax falls unevenly on manufacturing corporations, and is especially burdensome for most manufacturing as distinguished from non-manufacturing corporations.

The state would consider a levy so burdensome for them. The state department of revenue has already replied that such a tax was contained in all of the various sales tax measures offered to the Legislature since last spring, thus hinting obliquely that the industrial community was not sufficiently attentive to legislative affairs. A substitute plan as now drawn up would repeal the 4 per cent tax on value of fuel and power consumed in industry — representing a yield of about $11 million a year — and substitute for it a reduced federal tax deduction for state corporation income tax purposes. Corporations are now permitted to deduct up to 10 per cent of their net income for federal taxes paid when computing their state income tax liability. But a state official closely informed on tax affairs notes that there is no assurance that the Wisconsin business community as a whole will support such a change, again because of its probably uneven applications. While such a rule would aid heavy consumers of power, such as paper manufacturers, it would represent a penalty for many other corporate taxpayers, such as banks or department stores or many others whose fuel and power consumption is nominal. They would prefer the continuation of the 10 per cent federal tax credit rule, according to informed Capitol speculation.

Four Lanes Open On U.S. 41 Bridge By Next Weekend

OSHKOSH — Fox Valley residents can finally say goodbye to all those weekend traffic snarls over Lake Butte des Morts in Oshkosh. The U.S. 41 bridge across the lake will be opened to four-lane traffic on Nov. 6, according to Leroy Empey, district engineer of the Wisconsin Highway Commission. Empey said the deadline was set for the Thursday opening of the four-lane span despite the fact crews may still have work to do on that day.

The southbound lane of the span was completed late last year, and work on the northbound lanes was begun immediately. Ed Kramer & Sons, Plain, Wis., had the $854,302 contract for construction of the northbound roadway and bridge which stands 30 feet over Lake Butte des Morts. Empey said he had hoped the U.S. 41 overpass at Cecil Street in Neenah would have been opened on the same day as the Butte des Morts span, but crews are now shooting for an opening one week later. Empey said the Cecil project still has some concrete and grading work to be done on the underpass and ramps. The U.S. 41 overpass at College Avenue in Appleton opened for traffic more than a week ago, but Empey said clean up work remains which cannot be completed until next spring. He said grass seeding and the laying of sod will also be done next spring.

Thursday Deadline
“There are temperature and weather factors we have to consider, but we decided to set a deadline anyway,” Empey said. The only work left to be done, he said, was the painting of the spans and work on guard rails. The opening will be a welcome relief for all the weekend drivers who had come to expect traffic backups at the two-lane U.S. 41 span.

Check Leads In Killing of Woman, 82

WAUTOMA — Authorities are “checking out some leads” in the Saturday death of an 82-year-old Waushara County woman who was found in her home beaten and stabbed, a deputy reported today. The body of Mrs. Irene Souder was found in her rural farm house by her daughter, Mrs. Louis Bednarek. She reportedly died of one of the stab wounds in her back and head. State Crime Laboratory agents were sent to the scene to aid county deputies and a state report was expected today. The body of Mrs. Souder, a widow who lived about four miles west of here, was found about four to six hours after she died, Deputy Coroner Carl Ellis said.

Youth to Make Restitution, Judge Delays Ruling

Restitution totaling $54 was ordered Monday for a 17-year-old Appleton youth who appeared in Outagamie County Juvenile Court on five burglary charges, three theft counts and a disorderly conduct charge. Judge Raymond P. Dohr continued the case to Nov. 10 at which time he will rule whether the youth is delinquent. The delay is to give the Outagamie County Department of Social Services time to make a study and a recommendation. The boy was released to the custody of his parents. Sgt. Philip Condu of the Appleton Police Department said the boy, and others, burglarized homes owned by Franklin Reese, 425 E. McArthur St.; Walter Raddatz, 1290 W. Parkway Boulevard; Larry Fehrman, 1400 N. Viola St.; Erwin Klues, 913 W. Summer St.; and Walter Schneider, 1630 S. Driscoll St. The youth was further charged with thefts of money and liquor from three of the homes. The offenses occurred last February, March, April and August. Police said he also was involved in pouring syrup, flour and shaving cream on several girls at a Xavier High School dance last June 20.

20 Homes Due in Meadowview Acres

MENASHA — A Twin Cities home builder has begun a housing development project in Menasha that could lead to construction of 20 or more houses, both federally-subsidized or conventionally-financed, in the Meadowview Acres subdivision. Smith-Pilgreen Construction & Realty, Inc., Neenah, has completed one home and has begun or will soon begin construction on six other homes that vary in price from $15,700 to $25,000, according to Mrs. Lenore Kern, president of Smith-Pilgreen. News of the development came out in a meeting of the Menasha planning commission Monday afternoon, when they inspected two Meadowview Acres sites along Deerfield Avenue before granting building permits for their construction. Although required by city ordinance, such pre-building permit inspections have not been done in recent years because of the many permits the commission would have to act on. But Building Inspector Earl Kalm said he brought the building permit applications before the commission because they were being constructed under a federal mortgage-subsidy program. The program, called 235 by the Department of Housing and Urban Development which administers it, places certain restrictions on housing under the program that Kalm felt should be approved by the plan commission.

Kampo Vows to Press Tarr Bill Opposition

MENASHA — Town of Menasha chairman Roland Kampo Monday night called the Tarr Task Force proposals a “smoke screen” to cover up giving handouts to some communities while taking revenue from others. He also promised to fight against other task force proposals calling for a boundary review board and county-wide assessing. “I’m going to be down there (Madison) to fight these proposals,” Kampo told the town board at its regular meeting. The tax redistribution formula, proposed by the Tarr Task Force, would have destroyed competition between municipalities for luring new commercial and industrial development, according to Kampo. Bedroom Communities “If you put all the income into one pie, then the bedroom communities would do their best to keep industry out so they wouldn’t have the problems which come with large developments,” Kampo said. “Industry would be about as popular as junkyards,” he said. “There has to be the competition between municipalities. There’s competition between nations and states — why can’t we have competition on the local level too,” he stated. He took some swings at the proposed boundary review board which would rule on extensions of city limits. “I maintain that people should have the right to say where they want to live and not be subject to the decisions of a three-man appointive commission,” he said. “The board is just a way for cities to expand their limits without asking the people,” he charged. Kampo also called for a cost estimate on how much money it would take to consolidate the assessing duties under county jurisdiction. “Everyone says the county assessing idea is good — but how can they tell if it is good unless they know exactly how much it is going to cost,” he said.

17 Commitments
Mrs. Kern said her company has received 17 informal commitments to build homes in the Meadowview Acres subdivision, some of them HUD-financed and others financed through conventional loans. Of the seven completed or under construction, “about half” are HUD-financed, she said. The HUD-235 program allows for federal payment of mortgage interest charges for persons who qualify on the basis of income and liquid assets. Some 241 of the HUD-financed homes have been built in Winnebago County since the program began about one year ago. This constitutes the greatest number of homes for a single county being constructed under the program in the state. Mrs. Kern said Smith-Pilgreen has acquired about 20 lots in the subdivision, but that there are other lots available there. Some observers believe these lots also could be acquired by developers of homes in the same price range.

Neenah Eyes Professional To Handle Labor Contracts

NEENAH — Faced with an increasing number of bargaining groups, city officials are considering hiring a professional negotiator to handle salary and wage contracts with city employees. Mayor Donald Hassler said today, “The time appears to be approaching when the city will have to consider hiring a professional negotiator. “The time and demands of the negotiations with all groups requires a specialized capability,” he explained. Four Groups At present there are four authorized bargaining groups representing the police, fire, street-sanitation and park-recreation employees. The Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission has scheduled hearings Friday to determine if the Teamsters Union should represent the water and cemetery departments. All negotiations are handled by a special bargaining team from the finance committee with R. V. Hauser, director of administration, and Duane Philis, city attorney. Negotiations have been going on for a month with the police and fire employees. The police have asked for an overall pay and fringe benefit package totaling 28 per cent while the firemen have demanded an across the-board salary hike of $220 per man plus fringe benefits. Teamsters Local 563 now represents the street-sanitation and park-recreation employees and has filed petitions to represent the cemetery and water department workers. Robert Schlieve, Local 563 secretary-treasurer, said Monday efforts are also being made to organize the city hall workers.

It took nearly nine months to agree on a contract for the street-sanitation workers. Just two weeks ago, the city adopted an employee pay and classification plan proposed by Griffenhagen-Kroeger a Chicago-based personnel study firm. Plan Effectiveness Hassler admitted the effectiveness of the plan has been minimized with the organization of two more departments and the possibility of a third. When the city council adopted the plan it excluded employees who were represented by a union from its provisions. “I fail to see where any group would gain by choosing not to come under the pay plan,” Hassler said. He continued, “It was built-in benefits and is predicated on the basis that it will make the city competitive with industry and other municipalities. It also provides incentive for employees by giving special recognition and extra pay benefits for good performance.” “I don’t think there is any organized group which wants to achieve greater benefits than are necessary in a competitive market,” Hassler said. “And this is the basis of the plan which we have adopted,” he concluded.

Site Prepared For New School

Pact Approved For Neenah West
By Educators
NEENAH Following a review of bid tabulations Monday night, the Neenah Board of Education recommended to the fiscal control body the issuance of a contract for site preparation of the new Neenah West High School. The low bid of $29,975 was submitted by Power Excavators of Wisconsin Inc., Green Bay. The figure was $2,525 less than had been estimated, James Clark, business manager, said.

Groundbreaking Monday
Groundbreaking for the $4.5 million school is scheduled for 4:15 p.m. Monday. Clark said the critical work, that of getting the grading of the foundation area of the school finished before the ground freezes, should be completed in 30 days after construction begins. It would not be much of a delay if the athletic field grading is not completed before winter sets in, Clark said. The site preparation will also include blasting in the area where the auditorium will stand, Clark said. The buildings and grounds committee opened the bids late Monday afternoon. In addition to Power, other firms which submitted figures were C & P Construction Co., Belleville, at $36,052; Courtney and Plummer Inc., Neenah, $47,729, and Green Bailey Excavators Inc., Neenah, $69,693.

Award Contract
Clark said the board will ask the fiscal control unit to award the contract to the lowest bidder as soon as possible. An architect for Shaver and Co., the Salina, Kan., firm designing the school, was requested by the board to make another study of the location of the curtain in the auditorium. The board is attempting to determine whether the curtains should be installed on the first floor so small and large group instruction could be held. The board also went into some deliberation on how far the architects should go in designing a school auditorium which could also be used for civic purposes.

Hearing Set For Youth in Police Assault

OSHKOSH — A preliminary hearing has been set for 10 a.m. on Nov. 3 for an 18-year-old Kaukauna youth who has been charged with assaulting a Menasha police officer. John A. Foxgrover, 18, 308 E. Seventh St., Kaukauna, appeared before Winnebago County Court Branch 3 Judge James V. Sitter Monday morning. The judge set bond at $5,000 and told the defendant that the felony carries a term in the state prison of up to two years. Foxgrover, who was a passenger in a car driven by Jerome E. Nettekoven, 18, route 1, Neenah, is accused of hitting policeman S. R. Quaintance in the face early Saturday morning along the 500 block of Third Street in Menasha. Questioning Youths The incident occurred when Quaintance and fellow policeman James Stensen were questioning the two youths and a third youth after their auto had stalled along the road. When they asked the three youths to come to the station for further questioning, Foxgrover allegedly refused and a struggle ensued. Nettekoven pleaded guilty in court Monday morning to driving an auto after revocation and nonregistration of a vehicle. Judge Sitter sentenced the Neenah youth to 30 days in jail on the first charge and fined him $10 or three days in the county jail with Huber law privileges on the second.

Clintonville Installs Monitor

New Help for Heart Patients

CLINTONVILLE — An electrodyne heart-monitoring system has been installed at the Clintonville Community Hospital, which will provide 24-hour monitoring of heart patients, according to R. J. Platte, hospital administrator.

The equipment is owned by the hospital and cost approximately $9,400. There are four units, two of which are mounted on the wall in the patients' rooms, one at the nurses station, and one on a cart for emergency use.

The system is hooked up on a direct line to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, and to the offices of Drs. Danford, Ryan and Mielke in Doctors' Park, Appleton. Dr. Harold Danford, an internist, is a member of the medical staff of Clintonville Community Hospital.

Relays to Doctor

A cardiac patient has the equipment hooked onto him and the monitoring system relays immediately to the doctor and the hospital (St. Elizabeth), after which the diagnosis will come back with treatment instructions.

For the present time, one room for patients will have two machines, but the new plans of the hospital, the machine will be in individual rooms.

Waupaca has installed this type of heart monitoring system and the hospitals at Chilton and New London, and possibly Kaukauna, also plan to do so, Dr. Danford said.

A two-day program for nurses, who are to work with the coronary patients in the hospital, is scheduled for Nov. 17 and 18 at St. Elizabeth Hospital from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The nurses will be instructed in reading of the monitors, understanding the mechanical aspects of transmission, and the emergency and routine care of the cardiac patient.

because the money is budgeted."

Wolff is authorized to have 83 men on the force. Salary funds unspent because of the vacancies would pay the volunteers. He said the policemen's association approves the plan.

A request by North Side Advancement Association to relocate State 96 from Wisconsin Avenue to Northland Avenue was laid aside on Wolff's recommendation, to await results of a state highway commission origin-destination study of users of the highway.

The committee also amended earlier endorsement of an electronic system permitting emergency vehicles to change traffic lights in their path. The committee will recommend, rather than installing the entire system costing more than $50,000, that 10 intersections be outfitted first and the signal devices placed only on the 11 fire department vehicles, at an estimated cost of $15,000.

The proposal leaves out police vehicles and 29 other controlled intersections until the system can be tested. The recommendation goes to the mayor to consider putting it in the 1970 budget.

Spending Plan Of $5.5 Million Gets Approval because of the junior high and senior high additions.

The program also should not increase the annual debt retirement but the retirement should decrease with increased valuation, Buchanan said.

The eight building projects and the proposed year they be opened are Appleton West addition and the north central school, 1967; Badger Elementary and Einstein Junior High additions, 1972; Twin Willows addition and Colony Oaks School, 1973; Woodlawn addition, 1973, and central elementary, 1975.

In other business, the board learned Appleton is below the state average in Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association accident ratios. In Appleton, 3.66 per cent of students were injured in 1968-69. The state average was 5.6.

In junior high athletics, the state was 18.7 per cent and Appleton 8.66.

The board agreed to consider a scoreboard being donated to Appleton West. Russell Luebbers, President of the Terror Backers, urged the board to accept the gift.

The $9.65 million budget booklet was accepted as compiled, and copies will be given to City Council school advisory committee and fiscal control board members. The advisory committee will receive a more detailed and complicated version, because it is working to make a recommendation on the 1970 spending proposal.

The board discussed allowing foreign exchange students to attend the school district without paying tuition. The Rotary Club has requested a student from its program be allowed to attend tuition free but Stevens asked that more information be provided the board.

Terry Akey, 28, 2038 W. Second St., was fined $150 and costs or 37 days in jail and his driver's license was revoked for a year Monday after he pleaded guilty of driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Appleton police charged Akey after his car struck a parked auto Sunday night in the 1000 block of W. Spencer Street. He appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Daniel VanElzen, 12, 919 N. Durkee St., was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital Sunday afternoon for an accidental gunshot wound to the right foot, suffered while hunting with a .22 caliber rifle near Royalton.

Robert Boyce, 23, and Ronald Boyce, 19, both of Green Bay, were each fined $25 and costs or six days in jail in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Monday after pleaded guilty to charges of trespassing on Fun, Feather and Fur Hunting Club land in the Town of Bovina Sept. 29. They were hunting deer on the posted land.

A 10-day jail sentence, with Huber law privileges, was ordered Monday afternoon for William T. Roberts, 18, 1701 E. Melrose Ave., who pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge brought by Appleton police who arrested him in the 900 block of W. College Avenue at 11 p.m. Saturday.

Found guilty after a trial Monday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, Gerald Voeks, 1527½ N. Alvin St., was fined $50 and costs or 12 days in jail for the June 16 theft of a case of beer from a cooler at the Pizza Palace, 815 W. College Ave.

A policeman said he saw Voeks leave the rear of the restaurant about 2:30 a.m., with the case of beer, which he set near the building. Voeks contended he was playing a trick on a waitress.

Collection envelopes containing $32.10 were stolen from an office at First English Lutheran Church Sunday. The loss was discovered Monday after the empty envelopes were found in City Park.

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad took Beverly Kappell, 33, from her home at 1409 N. Bennett St., to Memorial Hospital at 11:45 a.m. Monday after she suffered chest pains.

Donna Green, 227 E. Winnebago St., suffered a cut forehead and injuries to her neck, knees and chest, and Darlene Sturms, 1321 N. Drew St., suffered leg, head and neck injuries when their cars collided at Winnebago and Morrison streets at 4:30 p.m. Monday. Both women were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by ambulance.

Joanne Ballou, 1303 S. East St., suffered minor injuries when her car, which was northbound on Superior Street, collided with a car driven by Raymond B. Rewalt, 36, 312 E. Pershing St., which was eastbound on Franklin Street, at 1 p.m. Monday.

KIMBERLY Edward Lowenhagen, 521 E. Second St., told police a battery was stolen from his car near his home Thursday or Friday.

KAUKAUNA — Firemen extinguished a blaze of undetermined cause in a small wood shack behind the Kenneth Anderson residence, 521 W. 10th St., about 2:35 p.m. Saturday.

KAUKAUNA — Police recovered a boat, stolen from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers last summer, over the weekend when a Corps of Engineers employee saw two boys playing in the boat on the Fox River. The 16-year-old told police that they found the boat and were using it for the first time.

KAUKAUNA — Police are investigating theft complaints filed over the weekend by two Seventh Street residents.

James Cronin, 426 W. Seventh St., reported the theft of a power saw, sabre saw, electric drill and assorted small tools from his garage. Paul Meyerhofer, 427 W. Seventh St., reported the theft of a bicycle from his garage.

COMBINED LOCKS — Wayne Kruse, 22, 420 Park St., pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct and was fined $50 when arraigned before Municipal Justice Wayne Hull Friday night.

COMBINED LOCKS — Damage was extensive but no one was injured in two Friday night accidents, according to police.

At 7:45 p.m. cars driven by Thomas Cummings, 19, route 4, Appleton, and Leslie Lamers, 506 W. Main St., Little Chute, collided at Darboy Road and Prospect Street. Damage was estimated at $1,500. Cummings, who was cited for inattentive driving, was turning into a parking area when the accident occurred.

At 10 p.m., cars driven by Denise Iverson, 16, 617 Marcella St., and David McKinnon, 18, 582 Eighth St., Menasha, collided, resulting in $850 damage. Police said McKinnon stopped in traffic on Wallace Street to back into a church parking lot when his vehicle was hit by the Iverson auto. Both drivers were cited for inattentive driving.

Greenville Board Backs VTE Bonding

Town Approves Ordinance to Ban Junk Cars at Dump

GREENVILLE — The town board approved the bonding resolution that was adopted by the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12, at its October meeting Monday.

A motion was approved that an ordinance be adopted and published that the town will not allow any junk vehicles to be put in the town dump.

Norman Julius was present to discuss the progress of the Bear Creek Watershed project.

Alvin Schroeder, Kerneth Schroeder and Earl Schroeder discussed a ditch they had dug on what in their opinion was a town road that goes through the swamp near Greenwood Road.

A copy of a petition that was sent to the Wisconsin Public Service Corp. by some property owners in the area, requesting that the utility company select an alternate route for the power line that they are proposing through their land, was received and put on file.

Mrs. Larry Huebner presented a petition signed by property owners in the area of the town cemetery, located on School Road between Ellen Lane and Greenwood Road, requesting the Town of Greenville to keep up and improve the appearance of the cemetery.

16 Hours Daily
FAA Says 3 to 6 Men Needed at Outagamie Airport Control Tower

It will take from three to six men to man an airport air traffic control tower 16 hours a day, Outagamie County has been informed by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

In a letter to the county board's airport committee, Ferris Howland, acting director, Air Traffic Service of the FAA, said five controllers and one supervisor were the normal recommendation for 16-hour tower operation. However, he added, as few as three men could do the job, depending on traffic at the airport.

The estimates were made in response to a request from the airport committee which is investigating the cost of the county operating a control tower. Efforts to get the FAA to build and operate a tower have been stymied by lack of federal funds and the relatively low priority for the Outagamie County facility.

FAA estimates are a minimum of three years before the county would be placed on a construction list.

The FAA recommendation of six persons was based on one man on one eight-hour shift and two men on the other eight-hour shift.

The additional personnel would be necessary to compensate for days off and vacations.

But, Howland noted in his letter, if there was no particular peak period of traffic at the airport, it would be possible to operate each shift with only one man. The minimum with which a tower could be operated on a 16-hour basis was three men.

Budget Figures

With a six-man crew, the FAA indicated that an operating budget of about $81,000 would be required and an annual maintenance budget of about $16,800.

Howland also indicated it would make no difference toward getting a permanent FAA tower whether the county operated the tower itself or if the county hired its personnel through the FAA.

The airport committee also discovered a snag in its plans to increase the aviation fuel tax at the airport from one cent to three cents per gallon.

The county's lease with Maxair, Inc., provides for the one cent tax through the end of 1970. The committee will seek to have the Maxair Board of Directors approve an increase in the tax effective the end of this year.

The tax applies to all aviation fuel sold commercially on the airport by Maxair, Appleton Beechcraft and Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Supervision Ordered For Kaukauna Youth

One year's supervision by the Outagamie County Department of Social Services was ordered Monday for a 16-year-old Kaukauna boy charged with taking a car without the owner's consent.

County Judge Raymond P. Dohr, of the Juvenile Court, found the youth delinquent.

Kaukauna police said the boy and another youth the evening of Aug. 6 took a parked car owned by Jerome VanDinter. The other youth, using a key from a different auto, stole the 1959 auto, but the 16-year-old drove it back to where it had been parked on Klein Street.

The boy has been in Juvenile Court twice before, on July 25, 1966, and on Dec. 20, 1966, at which time he was placed in the custody of the Outagamie County Department of Social Services and was taken from his home. He returned home last December.

The Post - Crescent, died here Monday after a long illness.

Bambenek was a founder and retired president of Peerless Chain Co., a large manufacturer of chains and wire formed parts.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Torinus, De Pere; a son, Raymond, Winona; six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Erupt for 19 Points in Last Quarter to Win, 25-3

Cowboys Dump Tarkenton for 10 Losses

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
DALLAS (AP) — A dejected Fran Tarkenton sat on a bench in the New York Giants dressing room and talked like a man who had been with Custer at his last stand.

"They just kept coming," said the Giants' quarterback of the Dallas Cowboy defense, which dumped him 10 times for losses totaling 70 yards in a 25-3 National Football League victory Monday night.

"The understatement of the year would be that Dallas just has a pretty good defense," said Tarkenton. "It's the best defense I've ever seen them play." Tarkenton suffered the indignity of being tackled in his own half, when the lethargic Cow-chine, but not like that. Mike Clark kicked field goals of 47, 35, and 15 yards before the bumbling Dallas offense Williams said. "Our defense is somewhat found itself. plan of the game will make the decision on who will start and that," he added, "will be a staff decision. It won't be a personal decision."

He had considered leading with veteran Elijah Pitts Sunday, as well as Anderson and Rookie Dave Hampton, Bengtson revealed.

Play as a Unit
"We decided to start Donny because Hampton and Pitts had been playing together as a unit and Anderson is used to working with Grabowski. It seemed only reasonable to set things up that way."

Bengtson didn't say so but the health of Travis Williams, who had started the first five league games at left halfback, obviously will be a factor in determining who will get the call in Pittsburgh.

"We expect Travis to be ready this week," Phil reported. "With his normal speed of recovery, he should be all right."

He said that Williams, who suffered an eye injury at Los Angeles a week ago Sunday, had been withheld against the Falcons "because specialists were concerned about his getting another blow to the same spot."

While on the subject of Anderson, the Packer headmaster clarified two other points. "The idea that he issued an ultimatum to play him or trade him," he said, "is completely false."

"The rumor that we were discussing a trade involving him with the New York Giants is not true," he said.

Playoffs To Start
However, if unbeaten but once-tied Xavier wins Saturday, it will probably earn a berth in the 4-team WISAA tournament. That would prolong the Hawk season to Nov. 8 (semi-finals) and possibly to Nov. 15 (state finals).

This has been the year for breaking long title droughts in the Fox Valley area. Kimberly, for example, took its first M-E football crown in 14 years. Manawa's unbeaten but once tied (by Little Chute) Wolves wrapped up their first Central Turn to Page 6, Col. 3

Chisox May Not Play Any In Milwaukee
John Allyn Says Club Has No Idea Of Moving Franchise

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Efforts to transfer Seattle's American League franchise to Milwaukee have interrupted the Chicago White Sox' thoughts about playing part of their league schedule in Milwaukee next summer.

John Allyn, the White Sox' new owner, said Monday night the business group that sponsored his club's games in Milwaukee in 1967 and 1968 has been busy pursuing the Pilots franchise, and has not "asked us to come back."

"As of this moment," he said, "it is unlikely that our club will play any of its league games in Milwaukee."

All in Chicago
Allyn said the Sox are interested in "playing all of our games in Chicago," but that the "door is not definitely shut" against another Milwaukee summer series, especially if it would help maintain "interest in Milwaukee toward getting a major league franchise."

The Sox played a regular season "home game" against each of its league opponents the last two seasons in Milwaukee County Stadium, from which the Braves moved to Atlanta in 1966.

Allyn also continued to downplay any thoughts his club has about moving its own franchise to Milwaukee. "I would oppose a move if it were made for capricious reasons, and if the City of Seattle were not given a proper chance," he told an interviewer.

Will Continue Rotation System
Bengtson Still Undecided About His Starting Halfback

BY LEE REMMEL
GREEN BAY — Who's No. 1? If the question concerns the Packers' starting left halfback, the jury is still out. Donny Anderson's Sunday renaissance to the contrary notwithstanding.

This, in effect was the word from Coach Phil Bengtson Monday as he paused to the review the Pack's 28-10 victory over the Atlanta Falcons, including Anderson's 114-yard rushing performance, and weigh the future.

"Donny certainly played well," Bengtson said, "but it doesn't necessarily mean he's No. 1."

Credit to Blockers
"He played up to expectations, but I'd like to point out that you have to give some of the credit for his success to the fine blocking he had up front."

"As of right now, we don't know who will start against Pittsburgh next Sunday," Bengtson said, simultaneously indicating that he plans to continue his rotation system. "We definitely intend to use all of our backs."

50 Seattle Businessmen Meet
Daley Will Retain Stock

SEATTLE (AP) — Bill Daley says he will retain a portion of the Seattle Pilots stock if it will help keep major league baseball in this city. The Seattle Post-Intelligencer said Tuesday.

Daley, chairman of the board of the troubled American League team, made the comment in a telephone interview from Cleveland after a meeting of 50 of the city's top businessmen in Seattle Monday night.

The meeting was called by Edward E. Carlson, president of Western International Hotels, to gather support and possibly a commitment of funds, for purchase of controlling interest in the club.

"I love baseball," Daley said. "I'm not in it for money, and I have never been associated with baseball in Cleveland for monetary reasons."

Daley said he "would be willing to throw $1 or $2 million into the kitty as a stockholder," and attle to comply with three conditions if it wished to retain the franchise. The Pilots operated their first season this year. One of the conditions was that local interests gain control of the club.

The other two conditions asked confirmation of commitments to complete renovation of Sicks' Seattle Stadium and assurance that a domed stadium would be built on schedule.

Appleton Xavier is the only Fox Cities high school besides Kimberly with a chance to win a football title this season.

The Papermakers wound up one of their greatest seasons in history — and first unbeaten one in 20 years — with a 34-0 win over Menasha, last Friday, that clinched the undisputed Mid-Eastern Conference championship.

Xavier holds the clear lead in the Fox Valley Catholic Conference going into the final weekend of play. The Hawks need a win to annex the crown, because in the event of a loss to Springs at Fond du Lac, Manitowoc Roncalli could grab the title with a victory over Lourdes. The Jets play one more league game than the Hawks.

Altogether, seven of the 11 Fox Cities teams have concluded gridiron action for the year. Three more — Fox Valley Lutheran, Little Chute St. John and Menasha St. Mary — will definitely wind up their campaigns this weekend. A fourth — Xavier — would end its season for sure only if it lost its FVCC finale.

Report Fond du Lac May Join Valley Association.
education, told the board that the 1-year term Fond du Lac plans to stay in the conference will post a game scheduling problem as many games, and particularly officials for games, are scheduled two years in advance.

The board also informally endorsed a possible application of Marinette to join the FRVC, although recognizing that there may be other opposition to that action. It further endorsed the admission of Two Rivers to the conference at the meeting.

Top Gopher Receiver, Parson, Quits Squad

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Gophers, floundering deep in the Big Ten cellar after four straight conference losses, received another blow Monday when their leading pass receiver, Ray Parson, walked off the squad.

Parson, who has caught 18 passes for 228 yards this season, was missing from practice Sunday and Monday, and his teammates said his equipment had been cleaned out of his locker.

One team member, who did not want to be identified, told the Associated Press that Par-

Randy Marks Also Rejoins Badger For Michigan Tilt

MADISON (AP)—Indiana and Wisconsin counted on the black and blue marks Monday, and decided the Hoosiers are still getting the worst of Saturday's football game.

Coach John Coatta's underdogs knocked Indiana out of the Big Ten lead, but came out of the game with only a couple of sprained ankles, he said.

The sore ankles belong to defensive guard and co-captain Don Murphy, and to defensive end Terry Whittaker. Both would be ready for this week's game at Michigan, however, Coatta said.

Indiana, meanwhile, said star running back John Isenbarger had not only an ankle sprain, but a bruised hip, and was a doubtful starter for the Michigan State game.

Coach John Point said he was looking for a new defensive left halfback. Three of Wisconsin's four touchdown passes got past that position.

Safety Jav Mathias was also on Indiana's injury list of doubtful starters.

The Badgers' Randy Marks, a running back who has missed two games with knee injuries, rejoined the team for mild workouts Monday.

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Charles D. "Chuck" Jamieson, former major league outfielder and all-time Cleveland Indians great, died Monday at the Paterson General Hospital. He was 76 and had suffered a heart attack six weeks ago.

Jamieson broke in with Washington in 1915, moved to Philadelphia in 1917 and to Cleveland in 1919. He finished his major league career in Cleveland in 1932 with a lifetime batting average of .303.

Lakers Pace NBA Scoring

Chamberlain Has Slim Lead Over Jerry West

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West, both of the Los Angeles Lakers, have found the shooting range during the early weeks of the National Basketball Association season to lead the scoring race.

Chamberlain is the top scorer with a 33.1 average followed by West with a 33.0 mark according to figures released by the league today.

Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers ranks third at 27.8 and Chaft Walker of the Chicago Bulls is fourth with 26.0.

Defending scoring champion Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets and Jeff Mullins of the San Francisco Warriors are tied for fifth at 25.8.

Wes Unseld of the Baltimore Bullets boasts the best field goal percentage, 61.8, while Flynn Robinson of the Milwaukee Bucks has been the most effective free throw shooter with a 93.5 mark.

Chamberlain dominates the rebounders with an average of 21.3 retrieves per game and Walt Frazier of the New York Knickerbockers is tops among the playmakers, averaging 9.8 assists a game.

Joyce-Tugay's Wins Touch Football Title

KAUKAUNA — Joyce and Tugay's clinched second-half honors in Touch Football League play with a 34-0 win over Shamrock Bar. Rich and Sally's topped Lee and Sandy's 13-0.

Gene Huss hit Dick Fassbender and Bob Promer each twice for touchdowns and Bob Broeren for the fifth for the winners.

Joe DeBruin connected with Gary McFarlan for one score and ran for the second for Rich and Sally's.

In the Beer Couples League at the 41 Bowl, Shirley Schultz topped the action with a 204 game and 540 series.

Tony Plantek hit a 581 series in the Cocktail Hour League at Sabre Lanes. Jean Hoffman had a 225 game, and Peggy Floor hit a 203.

Ray Elmer's 581 series was top count in the Trinity Lutheran Couples League at Sabre Lanes.

Lanes. Alice Patterson topped the women with a 223 game and 538 series.

"Tex" Techlin had a 225 game for the lone honor score in the Boozers Couples League at Sabre Lanes.

In the Post-Crescent Couples League at Hahn's Lanes, Jerry McGill slammed a 234 game and 596 series. Jerry Van Elzen was next in line with a 225 singleton.

Tom Kamps had a 233 game to lead the Power Company Couples League at the Super Bowl.

Cronin Calls AL Meeting For Nov. 5

BOSTON (AP) — President Joe Cronin called an American League meeting Monday to consider the Seattle franchise.

An American League spokesman said the session was scheduled for Nov. 5 in Cleveland. The meeting was called at the request of the Seattle club. The league spokesman said the request was made by Dewey Soriano, president of the Seattle Club, acting for Max Soriano and William Daley, majority stockholders.

The league office said Cronin advised Fred Danz of his decision. Danz represents a group endeavoring to purchase the Seattle franchise.

'Extremely Severe Drills' Detroit's Disgruntled Cagers Get Ultimatum From Coach Harding DETROIT (AP) — Disgruntled University of Detroit basketball players held a grievance meeting for an hour and a half Monday, accusing new Coach Jim Harding of imposing "extremely severe" practice sessions.

Harding answered the criticism by handing the 16 players an ultimatum: practice and play under his rules or get out. "We don't compromise with ballplayers who have complaints," said the 40-year-old coach who joined Detroit after being fired last season as coach of the Minnesota Pipers of the American Basketball Association.

Mittag Rolls 644 Pin Total

Bill Breyer Hits 258; Rog Emerich Slams 255 Game

Dan Mittag smacked a 644 series and Rog Emerich had a 255 game and 641 series to share honors in the Tavern League at Hahn's Lanes Friday night.

Ed Flood rolled a 232 game and 602 series and other Tavern League scores included Bud Jentz 601, Dick Geurts 599, "Ham" Baldock 589; Mickey McGuire 588, Norb Fritsch 228-588, Al Gast, 584, Joe Zeegers 580, Stan Prue 579, Al Seemann 578, Curly Ludwig 577 and Al Laux 235.

Bill Breyer pounded a 258 game to set the pace in the Trinity Lutheran League at Hahn's Lanes Friday. Breyer had eight strikes in the game including a string of five in a row.

In the Valley League at the Village Lanes, Little Chute, Wayne Baumgart hit a 233 game and 607 series for top honors Friday night. Joe Minton was runnerup with a 586 series and Don LeNoble had a 580 set.

The Commercial League, at Sabre Lanes Friday night saw Ron Noe hit a 246 game and 584 series.

Last week's action in the American League at Ludwig's Lanes, Freedom, saw Frank DeJong hit a 238 game and Larry Mossholders had a 603 series. Other top scores included Bob Weyenberg 586, Bob Greiner 235-578, Marv Gerrits 234, Carl Greiner Jr. 229 and Don Baumgartner 577.

"They were told there would be no concessions," Harding said after the closed confrontation in the school's Memorial Building. After the session, the players went onto the basketball floor and drilled for about an hour.

No Racial Problem

Harding said the players demanded the meeting and handed his assistant, Howard Fagan, a list of three grievances. The coach refused to state the exact nature of the grievances but said they did not involve any racial problem.

A player, who declined use of his name, told sportscaster Al Ackerman of WWJ-TV in Detroit that the dispute involved extremely severe practice sessions. Ackerman first disclosed the dispute.

Harding said the Titans team is comprised of "very, very average basketball players who are going to have to work very hard on the fundamentals of basketball to make up for a lack of talent."

"As a result," he said, "we'll have to spend a lot of extra hours to make up for the deficit. Those that want to play and pay the price and want to follow the philosophy that's set out will play, and those that don't will be dropped from the team."

Face Tough Opponents

Harding noted that the Titans face a series of tough opponents this season. Their first game is against Michigan on Dec. 1. Other opponents include Notre Dame, Wichita, Loyola of New Orleans, Western Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Canisius, St. Bonaventure, Illinois, Pittsburgh.

Harding has been putting the team through practice sessions seven days a week.

On weekdays, he said, the drills last an average of 2½ hours each. On weekend days, they run up to three hours.

Bob Calihan, Detroit athletic director, adopted a hands-off policy on the dispute.

"This is a matter between the coach and the players," said Calihan, who left the Titans basketball coaching job at the end of last season.

Haywood Gone

Detroit's basketball hopes were damaged severely earlier this year when Spencer Haywood, 6-foot-8 All-American center, left to join the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association.

Haywood reportedly received a contract worth $250,000.

It was largely on the strength of Haywood that Detroit set up this season's tougher schedule.

Wisconsin grid title since 1953. And, of course, Fond du Lac put away its first Fox River Valley Conference championship (sharing it with Green Bay East) in 21 years.

Chilton, boasting the area's only antiseptically clean record (no losses, no ties, no points allowed) captured Eastern Wisconsin Conference honors for the first time in three seasons.

Area titles to be decided this weekend, besides the one in the FVCC, are those in Little Nine and Northeastern Wisconsin conferences. Hortonville, Reedsville and Denmark all share the Little Nine lead going into the wind-up games. Keweenaw (7-0) has clinched a share of the NEW title.

4 Winning Records

Only four Fox Cities teams have achieved winning seasons this year. They are unbeaten Kimberly and Xavier, Little Chute (5-1-2) and Kaukauna (6-2). Fox Lutheran has a chance to attain the .500 level in its final outing — against winless Northwestern.

Little Chute's Mustangs followed up their successful 6-win inaugural season with an impressive campaign that saw them lose only to Waupaca (21-12), Kaukauna, meanwhile, saw its hopes for a 7-1 record vanish in a 20-15 loss to Clintonville.

The other six Fox Cities entries either did finish or will finish with sub-.500 records, but

Redskins Can Win When Playing Badly, Says Vince

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coach Vince Lombardi said Monday his Washington Redskins have one of the basic ingredients of a successful team—the ability to win when playing badly.

Lombardi made the observation after a newsman indicated that the Redskins, 4-1-1, despite many shortcomings, "actually believe they are going to win every game they play."

"That's a very nice feeling if you have that," Lombardi said. "That's the feeling the Packers had."

two of them — Neenah and Appleton East — capped their seasons on victorious notes. Neenah upset Preble, 7-0, and AHS-E averted a winless campaign with a 21-13 decision over Sheboygan South.

St. John, which gave Xavier a good battle before bowing, 31-16, plays a tough Waupaca team in a non-conference finale.

AHS-W jumped off to a 9-0 lead on favored Sheboygan North, but the Raiders came back to score the next 26 points of the game and win.

St. Mary, the only remaining Fox Cities team without a win, faces strong Premontre in its bid to change its status.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Oddly enough, some football teams have done better without a coach than with one! . . . For example, Yale played the 12 seasons from 1876 through 1887 without a coach and won 71 games while losing only 2 — and that's the best 12-year record in the history of the school — better than in all the years they've had coaches!

Here's an oddity about the sport of surfing . . . Even though surfing was practiced by Hawaiians as early as the 1700s, the sport was not popular anywhere else in the world until the 1920s when the great swimming champion from Hawaii, Duke Kahanamoku, introduced surfing to California and Australia . . . The next big surge in the sport came in the 1950s when a better surfing board was developed . . . Surfing now is growing in popularity in many nations and surfers are petitioning the Olympic committee for inclusion of surfing in the Olympics . . . But, oddly enough, it took surfing several hundred years to catch on.

Colts Shula Eyes Trades

Promises Shakeup Of Defense After Defeat by 49ers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Don Shula of the Baltimore Colts promised a shakeup of his defensive line-up Monday as he contacted other clubs for possible trades.

"The trading deadline is 4 p.m. Tuesday," Shula after watching films of Sunday's 24-21 upset loss to the San Francisco 49ers. "I'll be talking to other clubs between now and then, and will make a trade if I think it will help."

Baltimore's defending National Football League champions are off to a 3-3 start, and already have fallen three games behind the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams in the Coastal Division.

Line-up Changes

Although he mentioned the names of some youngsters while talking of possible line-up changes, Shula denied that he had already written off the 1969 season.

"As long as we have a chance mathematically, we're still interested in winning," he said. "But if the job isn't being done by those we have playing, we have no choice but to make changes."

Shula said the Baltimore linebackers, "as a whole, probably played their worst game of the year."

Kennedy Cancels Deal; Williams Returns to Bucks

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the National Basketball Association canceled the recent transaction that sent Sam Williams from Milwaukee to Los Angeles and directed Monday that the player be returned immediately to the Bucks' active roster.

The Bucks assigned Williams, a second-year guard, to the Lakers last Monday as final payment for guard Fred Crawford. "There was misunderstanding about certain restrictive clauses contained in Williams' contract," Kennedy said. "When John Erickson, general manager of the Bucks, and Fred Schaus, general manager of the Lakers, could not mutually agree on a solution, they asked me to arbitrate, both agreeing to accept my decision without reservation."

Phil Says He Hasn't Picked No. 1 Halfback

true, either. . . I knew that because of the situation, the way it is, there would be a lot of speculation."

In his analysis of Sunday's success, Bengtson made several other observations, among them:

"I certainly don't think Henry Jordan's career is over. He has a chronic back injury, which bothered him particularly last week but with two weeks' rest, he should come back. He will be eligible to play in our game at Baltimore Nov. 9.

"Bob Brown (Jordan's replacement) played very well—he was very aggressive. . . Jim Weatherwax (activated when Jordan was put on the move list) did all right, too.

"I was pleased that we were able to hold them after suffering the misfortune of giving them the ball in our territory five times in the first half. I thought the defense played very well under the circumstances. Of course, we had cooperation from their field goal kicker, who missed two out of three attempts.

"The 79-yard drive to our first touchdown was very satisfying. You always like to score early and easily, but it's most satisfying to drive to a score as we did there.

Wind was Factor
 "The wind was a factor, because it was an erratic wind. It seemed to come from different directions when we were in different positions on the field. Fortunately, we didn't have to punt much—it could have been a big factor.

"There were some good blocks and some real good analysis on the part of the defensive team on Herb Adderley's interception runback for the touchdown.

"Some of our mistakes could be charged to anxiousness and others to carelessness.

"The linebacker (Greg Brezine) made a helluva play on that second interception against us in the second quarter. . . the first one off the deflection by Claude Humphrey, was just one of those freak things.

"A guy at the end of the line, broke through to block Mike Mercer's field goal try in the last quarter. . . we don't even block him."

"We're going to need help from other people to win the Central Division championship. But anything can happen. Look what happened in Chicago Sunday — the Bears came awfully close to beating the Rams."

Packer Patter — In addition to being their best rushing performance in two years, the Packers' 241-yard production against the Falcons was their third highest one-game total of the '60s. . . it ranks behind only their 249-yard effort against the Gians in a 48-21 victory at New York Oct. 22, 1967 and a 283-yard eruption against the Eagles in a 49-0 triumph at Philadelphia Nov. 11, 1962.

The Packer defense also produced a spectacular statistic, feeling Falcon quarterback Bruce Lemmerman 6 times for 49 yards in losses. . . it was the Bays' most quarterback traps since Oct. 1, 1967, when they smothered Falcon passers eight times for 81 yards at Milwaukee County Stadium.

Boston Defender Turns Scorer;

Orr Paces NHL

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Orr, the 21-year-old super defenseman of the Boston Bruins, has taken over the National Hockey League scoring lead, the latest statistics disclosed today.

Orr, who set a league record for defensemen by totaling 21 goals and 64 points last season, has 14 points so far this year on two goals and 12 assists.

Phil Esposito of the Bruins, last season's scoring titleholder, has moved into a second place tie with Ab McDonald and Phil Goyette of St. Louis and Henri Richard of Montreal. Each has nine points. Billy Hicke of Oakland is sixth with eight.

This Is Typical of the determination Donny Anderson (44) showed Sunday as he gained a total of 114 yards rushing in Green Bay's 28-10 victory over Atlanta. He picked up 11 on this play. Guard Gale Gillingham is No. 68. (Post-Crescent News Service Photo)

Tennessee to Face Georgia

Ohio State Still Tops Poll; ND Gains
 Spot in Top 10

By BEN OLAN
 Associated Press Sports Writer

There's little reason to suspect that powerful Ohio State will have a tough time with the Wildcats this Saturday but Tennessee is likely to have its hands full with the Bulldogs.

The top-ranked Buckeyes, while rolling up a 5-0 record, have scored 232 points and given up 42. Their opponents, the Northwestern Wildcats, have scored 73 points and yielded 177 in posting a 2-4 mark.

The match between third-ranked Tennessee and Georgia's Bulldogs, No. 11, seems to be the most attractive on this weekend's schedule. The Vols are 5-0 and have piled up 198 scoring points to 57 for the opposition. Georgia, 5-1, has scored 193 points with 49 against.

Second-ranked Texas takes on Southern Methodist, Arkansas, No. 4, plays Texas A&M and Penn State, No. 5, meets Boston College.

Penn State and Florida gained the most ground among the Top Ten teams in the latest Associated Press major college football poll. Both zoomed three places, the Nittany Lions to fifth and Florida to seventh.

Ohio State held its solid lead by drawing 35 first-place votes and 772 points in the balloting by a national panel of 39 sports writers and broadcasters. The next three teams, Texas, Tennessee and Arkansas, maintained the same order as last week.

Southern California advanced from seventh to sixth while Louisiana State also moved up one place, from ninth to eighth. UCLA, held to a tie by Stanford, tumbled three places to ninth. Notre Dame, a 37-0 winner over Tulane, is the only new team in the first 10. The Irish climbed from the No. 12 position. Missouri, fifth a week ago, tumbled to 14th after losing to Colorado. Colorado and Michigan advanced to the Second Ten, replacing Oklahoma and Mississippi. Colorado took over 18th place and the Wolverines, 20th after defeating Minnesota for the Little Brown Jug. Oklahoma was beaten by Kansas State and Mississippi lost to Houston.

...The Top 20 with first place votes in parentheses, season records and points for the first 15 picks on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

Van Brocklin Says Falcons Didn't Cash in on Chances

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Atlanta Falcons' loss to the Green Bay Packers at Lambeau field Sunday was their own fault, according to Falcon Head Coach Norm Van Brocklin.

"We had a lot of opportunities and didn't take advantage of them," Van Brocklin noted following the 28-10 loss.

The fiery Dutchman, noted for his explosive personality, was amiable but short as he held court in the hallway outside of his charges' dressing room after the game.

Delving further into the loss, the former star quarterback said, "When we should have stopped them we couldn't. That was about the size of it."

On the Falcons one touchdown drive, in the third period, it appeared that the Falcons worked mainly over the Packers defensive left side, while during the first half they concentrated on the right side where Bob Brown was holding forth at tackle in place of the injured Henry Jordan.

"No," retorted Van Brocklin when asked about this, adding, "We just ran our regular plays, that's all."

The fact that Donny Anderson played in place of the injured Travis Williams and turned in his best pro performance ever did not affect the Falcons' game plan Van Brocklin noted.

"I don't think it makes any difference who they play. They have great depth," he said.

Van Brocklin said his quarterback, Bruce Lemmerman, making his first start in a league game, was a little nervous. Asked how he thought Lemmerman performed, the Dutchman retorted, "We lost, didn't we."

End of interview.

Final Game Films Set

Lamar Pessimistic About Prospects
For This Year

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Lamar Hunt puts it plain and simple. "Our objective is to get a major league franchise and we aren't choosy in the league or club," said the Texas millionaire.

Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League, is pessimistic about Dallas-Fort Worth's chances of landing a franchise this year. "We are working all the avenues, but I personally have reservations on getting Seattle and certainly Cleveland is a long shot," Hunt said.

Hunt has just the opposite attitude from Tommy Mercer, his partner in attempting to lure a major league baseball to the area. Mercer believes there is a 50-50 chance Seattle will move after its one year on the Pacific Coast and a 90-10 chance Dallas-Fort Worth will get it.

Hunt, asked if the attempt to get weak Seattle was a smoke-screen in a try to get a more established team like Cleveland, said: "Certainly Cleveland is more of a name. But nothing has developed that would lead us to believe that we could get Cleveland."

Hunt said: "Someday, sometime, it has got to happen. But to me the whole thing has been discouraging."

Hunt has twice been burned in attempts to attract major league teams, the latest 18 months ago when the National League turned its back and awarded Seattle a franchise.

The Dallas-Fort Worth cause was boosted by the attitude of William R. Daley, the majority stock holder of Seattle. Daley with the offer of Hunt and Mercer.

Mercer has said he didn't think Milwaukee would be any competition for Dallas-Fort Worth because the Chicago White Sox play a number of their games there each year and wouldn't stand for the loss in revenue.

Lindsay Gains in Race For Mayor of New York

Has Regained Support of Jewish Voters; Democratic Opponent's Ineptitude Shows

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
NEW YORK — On the very day that the New York Daily News published its first poll on the mayoralty race here last week, showing Mayor John V. Lindsay surprisingly ahead, Lindsay headquarters received a very private telephone call from an emissary of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The governor wanted to know, said his agent, whether Lindsay needed a modest campaign contribution. If he did, the contribution could immediately be made — but, of course, it could not be identified as coming from Rockefeller. The head of this state's Republican party could hardly contribute to the mayor, the loser in the Republican primary last June to State Sen. John Marchi who has Rockefeller's official blessing. Lindsay is running for reelection as both the nominee of the Liberal party and on a separate independent line.

It's Turned Down

The offer of Rockefeller campaign funds was politely turned down, but the fact it was made at all is evidence that Rockefeller is also convinced that Lindsay will now win on Nov. 4, and wants an undercover piece of the action as insurance for Lindsay's support in Rockefeller's own race for reelection next year.

Indeed, the recovery of Lindsay since the dark days after his primary defeat by Marchi (when one reputable poll showed City Controller Mario Procaccino, the Democratic nominee, a 14-point favorite to win in November) has been little less than fabulous. With a yarmulka stuck to the top of his head like a permanent fixture, Lindsay's ardent wooing of the all-important Jewish vote has broken through the crust of venomous hostility to make him the favorite as of today.

This shift of the Jewish vote, which Lindsay dangerously alienated in his handling of racial disorders arising out of the teachers' strike and the school decentralization issue last year, was clearly visible in a poll we conducted late last week in Jewish areas of the upper Bronx. With pollster Oliver Quayle and his national field director, Mrs. Eleanor Seaman, we sampled 63 Jewish voters, 50 per cent of whom supported Lindsay in 1965. These middle-income voters now plan to vote 45 per cent for Lindsay, 38 per cent for Procaccino, and 2 per cent for Marchi — with 15 per cent undecided.

Allocating the undecided, Lindsay gets 53 per cent — a higher ratio than four years ago and enough, barring some last-minute Lindsay collapse, to give him another four years in Gracie Mansion.

Movement Gaining

The movement toward Lindsay, although reluctant and cautious, seems to be gathering momentum. Several of those we sampled who had not made up their minds told us that Procaccino just wasn't "a big enough man" for the job, indicating that they'd end up voting for Lindsay. As for Marchi, he suffers the fatal handicap, despite his primary victory over Lindsay, of still being relatively unknown.

Moreover, our sample registered a remarkable correlation between racial backlash and the division of the vote between Lindsay and Procaccino. Quayle's "backlash index" worked out from questions we asked each voter, showed either "strong prejudice" or "some prejudice" against Negroes by 25 of the 63 Jewish voters.

Only one voter with "strong prejudice" and five with "some prejudice" favored Lindsay. Procaccino was backed by six voters with "strong prejudice" and nine with "some prejudice." Conversely, 22 voters with "little or no prejudice" will vote for Lindsay as against 10 for Procaccino.

This indicates that the lack of racial disturbances since the school battles last year has lowered backlash emotions among Jews from the explosive heights of a year ago enough to make it possible for Lindsay's courtship to pay off. Just seven months ago, for example, no less than 74 per cent of the voters of New York City wanted someone, anyone, for mayor other than Lindsay. But comparative racial peace is by no means the only or even the major factor in Lindsay's recovery. Equally important to a Lindsay victory next week is the madcap ineptitude of Procaccino's campaign, a subject for a subsequent column. (Copyright 1969)

Three Forfeit Bonds For Violations of Conservation Laws

Three men forfeited bonds totaling $156 in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday on charges brought by state conservation wardens.

Gerald N. Pfeifer, 40, Dousman, Wis., forfeited bonds totaling $57 for transporting a loaded shotgun in a motorboat and for failing to display identification numbers on a motorboat Oct. 4 in the Town of Maine.

William C. McLeod, 38, Milwaukee, also arrested Oct. 4 in the Town of Maine, forfeited a $42 bond for carrying a loaded shotgun in a motorboat.

William J. Manney, 26, 720 E. Fulton St., Waupaca, forfeited a $57 bond he posted after he was caught shooting a jack snipe out of season Sept. 16 in the Town of Maine.

Damage at Least $500 In School Burglary

About $50 was taken and damage totaled from $500 to $800 in a weekend burglary at St. Thomas More School, 1810 N. McDonald St.

Police said burglars forced a kitchen window to gain entry.

The damage occurred when burglars broke into offices and classrooms where they ransacked desks and filing cabinets. The burglary was discovered before classes Monday.

Husband Forfeits Bond For Disorderly Conduct

Richard H. Schmidt, 28, 655 E. Pearl St., Seymour, who police said, beat his wife outside an Appleton tavern Oct. 20, forfeited a $54 bond on a disorderly conduct charge Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

A patrolman said he saw Schmidt and his wife leave a tavern in the 500 block of N. Appleton Street about 12:35 a.m. Schmidt, according to police, struck his wife on the head and neck until she fell to the sidewalk. She was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by the fire department rescue squad.

STEVENS POINT — High school students put the secretary of defense on the defensive over American involvement in Vietnam and other issues Monday, during the third biennial Laird Youth Conference here.

But the secretary, Melvin R. Laird, also took the initiative to make points for the Nixon Administration during the day-long forum. Laird began the event in 1965 while he was still serving as 7th District representative. He appeared with Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare.

They were introduced to the 250 high school juniors and seniors by Dr. Lee S. Dreyfus, president of Stevens Point State University, where the conference took place.

Unique Forum
Dreyfus told the students assembled in the glare of television lights in the university gymnasium, "This is a unique forum."

"For two cabinet members to go directly to young people," Dreyfus said, is "an unprecedented kind of thing."

A Mosinee girl asked Laird if he could justify American deaths in Vietnam "in the name of U.S. security."

He told her there is "nothing that I spend more time on than working toward an end to the deaths. I will judge whether I have been a success as secretary of defense as to whether this war is concluded and these deaths can be stopped," Laird said.

Withdraw Troops
He said the Nixon Administration's aim is to withdraw American troops "as fast as we can." He termed President Nixon's program of Vietnamization of the conflict "the only program to end the war" successfully. None other that he has seen, Laird declared, has the chance of success of the Nixon plan to turn the fighting burden over to the South Vietnamese.

A group of war protesters stood outside the gymnasium entrance as Laird and the students and onlookers entered. Laird accepted a pamphlet from one of the group and shook hands with at least one of the students, who were identified by university staff members as students at the state institution.

The protest was quiet, consisting of display of anti-war posters and the reading of the names of Vietnam war dead over a public address system.

Political Prisoners
A Stevens Point high school student named several political prisoners he said were being held by the present South Vietnamese regime and asked how this country could support a nation that is not necessarily democratic.

Laird said he agrees with a recent Senate resolution which he said declared that diplomatic recognition of another nation "by itself does not necessarily mean that we approve of everything that is going on."

Arab Crisis Unsettled

Guerrillas Renew Attacks On Villages in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Lebanese government reported new attacks by Arab guerrillas on Lebanese villages and army posts during the night. The attacks dimmed hopes for negotiations to settle the week-long crisis.

The attackers used rockets and heavy mortars in their strikes on the town of Rachaya and the village of Mashta Hassan. An army post at Aihia also was raided, the government said.

One Lebanese soldier was reported killed and four wounded. Three guerrillas died, three were wounded and four were taken prisoner, the government said. It also reported that in the rocket attack on Rachaya, 30 miles southeast of Beirut, a woman was killed when her house received a direct hit.

Army Post

Guerrillas occupying the village of Yanta brought in reinforcements Monday night to consolidate their hold, the government said. Yanta was overrun Friday night.

The presence of guerrillas at Rachaya and Mashta Hassan brings to 32 the number of localities where they have been reported. Since the present crisis began, the guerrillas have occupied four villages in eastern and southern Lebanon.

American Oil Tank
Earlier in the night, bazookas hit an American oil tank, and shooting and bombs erupted in Beirut as Lebanese officials prepared for peace talks with the leaders of the guerrillas.

Huge flames hit the night sky in the oil port of Sidon after two bazookas, apparently fired by Arab guerrillas, blasted big holes in a 100,000-barrel oil tank of the American-owned Transarabian Oil Pipeline Co. It took firemen 2½ hours to extinguish the blaze.

In Beirut, unidentified men opened up with machine guns on a police station in the Moslem Basta area. Reinforcements were rushed to the scene, and the attackers retreated after a 15-minute exchange. There was no report of casualties or arrests.

Near Prison
Shooting also broke out near the El Rami prison, and a woman was injured by a stray bullet.

Residents reported bomb blasts in various parts of Beirut during the night, apparently as one result of the lifting of the curfew from 3 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Earlier in the night President Charles Helou conferred with Premier Rashid Karami, the commander in chief and the chief of staff of the army to formulate proposals to put before guerrilla leaders at a meeting Egypt is sponsoring in Cairo.

Permission Asked
Al Ahran, the semi-official Cairo newspaper, said today that Egypt had demanded that the Lebanese give the guerrillas a clear declaration of freedom to attack Israel from the bases they have established in villages along the Lebanese-Israeli border.

The paper, which usually speaks for President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said any mediation effort "must be aimed primarily not at a compromise but a proper solution which would guarantee the highest interests of the Arab struggle, together with the interests of the Lebanese people."

The Lebanese government says it sympathizes with the guerrillas, but its army tried to crack down on them last week, because it fears Israeli retaliation.

Panel Not Disinterested

Proxmire Slams Military Watchdogs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire says a blue-ribbon panel intended to be a watchdog of the Pentagon has become, by virtue of military contracts held by a majority of members, a shield against criticism of the defense establishment.

Eight members of the presidential panel have interests totaling more than $1 billion in defense-related businesses, the Wisconsin Democrat said.

"Obviously this panel is caught in the embrace of the very bureaucracy it is supposed to evaluate and constructively criticize," he said in a Senate speech to be delivered today but released Monday night.

The Pentagon, however, said the members are "widely experienced individuals from many walks of life" who are serving without pay.

Their diversity should enable them "to meaningfully and objectively view national defense needs of the nation," defense officials said.

The panel was named last June 30 by President Nixon and assigned to study procurement and management practices of the Pentagon.

Holdings by the eight members in 12 companies doing more than $815 million in business with the Defense Department, and positions of two of them with insurance companies holding contractor stock or loans raises a conflict of interest, Proxmire said.

"In short, these are the eight men who may be faced with recommending changes which may hurt their own interests," he said.

Pentagon Staffer
In addition, he said, the 15-member panel's chief administrative officer, J. Fred Buz-hardt, is a Pentagon staff member.

"The panel has become another creature of the Pentagon," Proxmire said. "The panel is at best a sham, at worse an indication of how powerful the Pentagon has actually become—so powerful that it is able to control those who would criticize it."

Proxmire supplied this list of those he described "members with close Pentagon associations":

—Robert C. Jackson, chairman, Ryan Aeronautical Co.

Ship-yard Representative
—Lewis Franklin Powell Jr., a Richmond, Va., lawyer whose firm, the senator said, represents Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co.

—Ruben F. Mettler, executive vice president and director of TRW Inc.

—Wilfred J. McNeil, director and adviser of Fairchild-Hiller Corp.

—William Blackie, chairman Caterpillar Tractor Co. and a director of Shell Oil Co.

—William P. Clements Jr., chairman of the board of governors of Southern Methodist University, which Proxmire said holds $735,000 in defense contracts.

Proxmire said Clements is a director of Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co., which has defense industry loans and stocks totaling $7.6 million, and chairman of SEDCO, Inc., which has $93,000 in defense contracts.

Administration Keeping Out Of General Electric Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, viewing the nationwide General Electric strike as a test of its anti-inflation policies, says it will let the company and unions fight it out without federal interference.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz said the government will keep out of the GE strike except for the voluntary efforts of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. If any war production is stopped, Shultz indicated, the government would consider a Taft-Hartley injunction only against the few plants involved.

Shultz said the Nixon administration had already warned both labor and business not to base wage and price decisions on the assumption of continued inflation.

"Why is the company putting up so much resistance?" Shultz asked. "It seems to me the reason must be, and I believe it is true in the case of General Electric, they are feeling the effects of the anti-inflation policy in their product market, they can't just raise their prices so easily."

That means that their profits will be squeezed by a large wage increase.

"There's nothing as likely to put backbone into company negotiators than a squeeze on their profits. That's what's really going on here," said Shultz.

Shultz' remark infuriated leaders of a 13-union AFL-CIO combine representing some 147,000 strikers.

"If they're going to keep their hands out of it, they ought to keep their mouth out of these affairs," said a highly placed labor source.

The labor source also sharply

countered Shultz's claim that a profit squeeze led to GE's stiff resistance to wage demands, citing Standard and Poor figures that the firm's profits climbed 11 per cent the third quarter of this year over the same period of 1968.

"Even GE didn't claim a profit squeeze in collective bargaining and can hardly make that claim," he said of the figures showing after-tax profits of $90.2 million compared with $81.3 million in the third quarter of last year.

Shultz, asked if the Nixon administration's policy meant it viewed GE's strong stand as "responsible" and the striking unions as "irresponsible," said "No."

"It isn't as though there won't be any wage increase. The question is how much of a wage increase," he said.

POW Mail Might Have Hanoi Okay

CHICAGO (AP) — David T. Dellinger says Hanoi plans to open up a regular exchange of mail between American prisoners of war and their families.

Dellinger, head of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, also declared Monday the North Vietnamese would release the names of their prisoners, although not necessarily right away.

He said the U.S. peace movement was the only channel Hanoi would use in providing such a list.

In Coronado, Calif., a spokesman for the prisoners' families said that forcing the families to apply to a political organization for information would be "an unnecessary exploitation of their helplessness."

Hanoi Delegate
Mrs. James B. Stockdale, national coordinator for the National League of American Prisoners of Southeast Asia, made the statement in a telegram to Xuan Oahn of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks.

Funneling information through the antiwar committee, she told Oahn, "only diminishes the humanitarianism of the gesture your country is making in releasing the list of prisoners. The world will see no logic, only vindictiveness, in such an arrangement."

Mrs. Stockdale sent the telegram after learning of Dellinger's statements in Chicago.

Dellinger made these statements in disclosing parts of a plan his attorney said was arranged in meetings with the North Vietnamese in Paris over the weekend. The disclosure came at a news conference be-

Finch Calls Pollution Deadly

STEVENS POINT — Calling man's threat to his environment as deadly a threat as thermonuclear war, Robert H. Finch, U.S. secretary of health, education and welfare, told a high school audience Monday the federal government is only beginning to face the problems. Finch appeared at the third biennial Laird Youth Conference along with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, former 7th District congressman. After his talk, he faced the 250 participating high school juniors and seniors during a probing question and answer hour. Finch listed examples of air and water pollution and degradation of the environment which he said "reveal a threat just as deadly as thermonuclear war, and a problem just as acute as the continued existence of racial injustice."

"Only Beginning" In his luncheon address, Finch added, "On the federal level we are only beginning, really, to address these problems."

He said his and other federal agencies are attempting to deal with the problems through the new cabinet-level environmental quality council which he called "the first unified effort in this area."

During the question period, Finch was asked by a Wausau High School boy why the artificial sweeteners, cyclamates, are being withdrawn from the market while cigarettes are still allowed to be sold. "It is a question of what the law says," Finch replied. "The law simply doesn't cover cigarettes. They are not under my jurisdiction."

He also said that in view of improved means of detecting hazards in food additives, it might be well to amend the law that does give the agency authority to order substances such as cyclamates withdrawn from the market.

"The law should provide that these people are warned," Finch suggested, referring to manufacturers, to avoid the detrimental effects on an industry when a substance must be removed suddenly as in the cyclamate case.

The secretary stated that he was deeply impressed with the students, whom he encouraged to continue to take a leadership role in public affairs. He warned against acting only as critics on the sidelines and spoke sternly against extremes

2nd Obscenity Case Booksellers Lose Bid to Move Trial

Attorneys for two men charged with selling obscene magazines were unsuccessful Monday afternoon in their try for a change of venue.

The attorneys cited "community prejudice" in their attempts to change trial locations for Thomas Hamm, 27, 1192 Adams Beach Road, Clintonville, who is charged with four counts, and Erral J. Simpson, 32, 317½ W. College Ave., who faces one felony count.

Hamm operated the Book Nook, 902 W. Wisconsin Ave., and Simpson was a clerk at the store when the alleged offenses occurred between April 19 and June 10. The business place now is known as the Appleton Book Store.

Article Cited In moving for a change of venue, Atty. Allan Cain displayed an Oct. 22 story in The Post-Crescent about two Appleton men who were each fined $100 on disorderly conduct charges brought after they ransacked the Appleton Book Store Oct. 15.

The two men contended that they took the action because of the type of books being sold there. Every member of the Circuit Court jury panel indicated that they had read the article.

Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell said he also had read the article. He denied the motion.

Testimony in the second obscenity case this month was expected to close late this morning after which a jury of six men and six women will begin deliberation. Some of the same jurors who on Oct. 16 found another Appleton bookstore operator guilty of selling obscene magazines, are sitting on the Hamm and Simpson case.

Chief witnesses for the state Monday were Dr. Franklin Utech, instructor of design at Oshkosh State University, and Thomas A. Brady, an art instructor at the university. Parnell allowed both men to testify as experts. Utech and Brady said none of the 11 magazines in question had any artistic value. Brady, who said he had painted nudes many times, remarked during cross examination, "...my general reaction when I saw this stuff was junk."

Utech, during cross examination, said "the human figure is a form of art," but he said the pictures in the magazines were not.

Detective Testifies Det. Richard Jirschele of the Appleton Police Department testified that he purchased all 11 books from the Book Nook. Cain, who represents Simpson, told that the jury he intends to show that his client simply worked for Hamm and did not actually possess or sell the alleged obscene magazines. Jirschele testified he bought some of the magazines directly from Simpson.

Attorney Steve Beyer of New London, who represents Hamm, told the jury in his opening arguments that he will not "call experts in the field of people without clothing on," but would instead attempt to simply show that the magazines are not obscene under Supreme Court guidelines.

AAL Officers Re-Elected

Embarrass Branch Votes Donations, Plans Year's Activity

EMBARRASS — Officers were re-elected Sunday night at the annual meeting of Branch 3842 of the Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) at the Zion Lutheran church.

They are Grover Gehrt, president; Orville Zahn, vice president; and Mrs. Roy Gruetzmacher, secretary and treasurer.

The branch voted to again donate $5 to the Bethesda Lutheran Home and the Lutheran Children's Friends' society for Christmas, and will again sponsor the annual confirmation recognition dinner and a summer picnic.

Claire Anker, AAL representative, discussed the AAL scholarship organizations. Anyone wishing more information may contact him.

The next federation convention will be at the Green Bay Arena, and those planning to attend may call either Anker or Mrs. Gruetzmacher.

A movie on Alaska was shown through the courtesy of the Urban Telephone Corp. Door prizes were awarded to Clarence Bork, Cathy Anton, Mrs. Edwin Schlade, Orville Zahn, and Claire Anker.

Members of the decoration committee were Mrs. Cathy Anton, Mrs. Wayne Olson and Mrs. Orville Zahn. Serving on the lunch committee were Mrs. Ray Rindt, Mrs. Grover Gehrt and Mrs. Roy Gruetzmacher. Guests were the Rev. and Mrs. Schlade and Mrs. Martha von Gemmingen.

Jaycettes to Hold Clinic on Baby-Sitting

Waupaca Course at Riverside School Has Three Sessions

WAUPACA — The Waupaca Jaycettes are sponsoring a free baby-sitting clinic, Nov. 11, 18 and 25 at Riverside School.

Registration and the first class will be at 6:45 p.m. Nov. 11.

Each session will run for two hours and is designed for boys and girls in grades 6, 7, and 8 who take care of younger children in their own families or baby-sit for hire.

Mrs. Marge Johnson will teach infant care, and Mrs. Kenneth Parmenter, kindergarten teacher, preschooler entertainment at the first session.

The second class will include lectures by Police Chief Fred Rasmussen, Acting Fire Chief Allan Pohl, and Dr. John Steinler. After the lectures there will be time for questions and answers.

Good grooming tips will be given at the final session by Mrs. Dwight Schafer, home economic teacher. The series will close with a written test.

The clinic is offered every two years and boys and girls interested in the program may fill out forms which the school provides.

Taxpayers Pay $185 for Trial That Didn't Start

It cost Outagamie County taxpayers $185.80 Monday for a 12-member jury trial that never got started.

Delton Young, 32, Shiocton, and Milton Pelkey, 32, route 1, Hortonville, were scheduled to stand trial on charges of possessing fish traps April 11 in the Town of Bovina. The charge was brought by state conservation wardens.

Trial was to have been in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. Young and Pelkey were in court. So were the two investigating wardens, an assistant district attorney, Judge Urban P. VanSusteren, his court reporter, 17 members of a jury panel and two bailiffs.

The only person missing was the men's attorney. Van Susteren said Atty. Robert Henke's doctor called half an hour before trial and said the attorney was ill. According to the doctor, trying the case at that time "might have a serious impact."

Van Susteren said he regretted that all the preparations had been made for trial and he said he "realizes it has cost the county a lot of money."

He also noted that the wardens, jurors and district attorney's office had been inconvenienced.

He then excused the jury, after telling them to go to the clerk of courts office to collect a half day's pay, amounting to $8 per person, plus mileage from their homes to the courthouse.

Chilton Sets Stage for $2.9 Million School Bond

Electorate To Go to Polls On Nov. 18

CHILTON — A referendum asking for a $2,900,000 bond issue to construct a new high school will be conducted Nov. 18.

Voting will be from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in room 110 at the high school.

The proposed bond would be retired over 20 years. This will increase the present $22.90 tax levy by $3 per $1,000 of equalized valuation.

The bond will cover construction costs, equipment, site improvement and architectural fees, according to Arthur J. Horst, board of education chairman, who conducted a press conference Monday.

Combined Indebtedness The combined indebtedness of the present building is $392,000 which is being retired by annual payments appropriated in the school budget.

Some existing problems noted by Horst include enrollment which has increased about 2½ times, from about 600 to 1,400 from kindergarten through the 12th grade. He also noted that the density of the adjacent residential development would make it more difficult and costly to expand the existing facility.

Today the problem in the school is vocational training, which is very limited, according to Horst. He said the program must be increased to meet the needs of about 60 per cent of the students that are not anticipating entering college. He said, "Years ago curriculums were pointed to an academic stage for the college bound student."

Training Limited It is not possible to provide flexibility for training students and give them small limited

Fines Levied on Youth Involved In Auto Chase

WAUPACA — A New London youth pleaded guilty to charges of driving an automobile after his license was revoked and fleeing from a police officer, and stiff fines were levied Monday in County Court Branch 2.

James W. Zaddock, 19, 217 Wilson St., was picked up by county police shortly after midnight Thursday, on U. S. 45, about a mile south of Clintonville, in the Town of Bear Creek.

Judge Nathan Wiese, fined Zaddock $100, plus $7 costs, and a mandatory five-day sentence for driving after revocation of his license. If he does not pay the fine, Zaddock must spend an additional 30 days in jail on this charge.

For attempting to flee the officer, Zaddock must pay $200 fined, plus $7 costs, or spend 90 days in the county jail.

The two bailiffs also were paid. No date was set for further court proceedings. Pelkey and Young are free on bonds.

16 Hours Daily

FAA Says 3 to 6 Men Needed at Outagamie Airport Control Tower

It will take from three to six men to man an airport air traffic control tower 16 hours a day, Outagamie County has been informed by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

In a letter to the county board's airport committee, Ferris Howland, acting director, Air Traffic Service of the FAA, said five controllers and one supervisor* were the normal recommendation for 16-hour lower operation. However, he added, as few as three men could do the job, depending on traffic at the airport.

The estimates were made in response to a request from the airport committee which is investigating the cost of the county operating a control tower. Efforts to get the FAA to build and operate a tower have been stymied by lack of federal funds and the relatively low priority for the Outagamie County facility.

Three Year Wait FAA estimates are a minimum of three years before the county would be placed on a construction list. The FAA recommendation of six persons was based on one man on one eight-hour shift and two men on the other eight-hour shift. The additional personnel would be necessary to compensate for days off and vacations.

But, Howland noted in his letter, if there was no particular peak period of traffic at the airport, it would be possible to operate each shift with only one man. The minimum with which a tower could be operated on a 16-hour basis was three men. Budget Figures With a six-man crew, the FAA indicated that an operating budget of about $81,000 would be required and an annual maintenance budget of about $16,800. Howland also indicated it would make no difference to ward getting a permanent FAA tower whether the county operated the tower itself or if the county hired its personnel through the FAA. The airport committee also discovered a snag in its plans to increase the aviation fuel tax at the airport from one cent to three cents per gallon.

The county's lease with Maxair, Inc., provides for the one cent tax through the end of 1970. The committee will seek to have the Maxair Board of Directors approve an increase in the tax effective the end of this year.

The tax applies to all aviation fuel sold commercially on the airport by Maxair, Appleton Beechcraft and Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Knowles Still Has Hope for Tarr Program MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles says he hasn't abandoned hope for legislative adoption of the Tarr task force's shared-tax program.

"Where there's life, there's hope," the governor remarked Monday.

The Republican-controlled Senate, despite appeals from the GOP governor, rejected the Tarr bill last week. Some Democratic legislators accused Knowles of not having worked hard enough for the measure.

The governor leaves Sunday for a 24-day trade mission to Latin America. Asked if he thinks his absence might have a bearing on the Legislature's activity, Knowles said: "I don't know why it would."

Hospital Bid Opening Dec. 2 At Clintonville

Plans Have Been Completed for $2,161,000 Project

CLINTONVILLE — The bid opening date for remodeling and an addition to Clintonville Community Hospital is at 2 p.m. Dec. 2 at the hospital here, according to R. J. Platte, hospital administrator.

The final plans have been received and they will be available at the office of the architects, Berners, Schober & Kilp, 310 Pine St., Green Bay; also at Builder's Exchange, 2733 W. Wisconsin Ave., Milwaukee; F. W. Dodge Corp., 1002 W. Capitol Drive, Milwaukee; Fox Valley Builder's Exchange, 408 Broad St., Menasha; F. W. Dodge Corp. and Mechanical Exchange, both of Madison, and at the Clintonville Community Hospital offices.

The bids must be accompanied by a performance bond in the amount of 5 per cent of the total bid.

Plans for the $2,161,000 hospital project were approved by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) recently. Funds for the project had been assured earlier.

The addition is planned to face Anne Street and connect with the existing structure, which was completed in 1950. It will not add patient bed space (presently 50 beds) but will make all beds conform to state and federal standards as well as provide substantially increased laboratory, treatment and administrative space.

Clintonville Installs Monitor

New Help for Heart Patients

CLINTONVILLE — An electrodyne heart-monitoring system has been installed at the Clintonville Community Hospital, which will provide 24-hour monitoring of heart patients, according to R. J. Platte, hospital administrator.

The equipment is owned by the hospital and cost approximately $9,400. There are four units, two of which are mounted on the wall in the patients' rooms, one at the nurses station, and one on a cart for emergency use.

The system is hooked up on a direct line to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, and to the machine will be in individual rooms.

Waupaca has installed this type of heart monitoring system and the hospitals at Chilton and New London, and possibly Kaukauna, also plan to do so, Dr. Danford said.

A two-day program for nurses, who are to work with the coronary patients in the hospital, is scheduled for Nov. 17 and 18 at St. Elizabeth Hospital from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The nurses will be instructed in reading of the monitors, understanding the mechanical aspects of transmission, and the emergency and routine care of the cardiac patient.

group attention in the present school facilities, Horst said.

Due to lack of space, special aids classes are limited. There also is a shortage of proper locker room space, guidance quarters, and general offices.

A. W. Larson, a board member, pointed out that the vocational education program is in its infancy, "it is beginning to pick up steam, and it will offer the basic training needed for the non-college-bound student to continue his schooling and learn a trade. These people cannot be ignored, they cannot help it if they are not college material."

Calling Police 'Pigs' Termed Misconduct

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — "Any time you call anybody a pig in public, that's disorderly conduct," Municipal Judge D. B. Anderson said Monday as he sentenced Frank Peak, Jr., 26, to 30 days in jail.

"The classes in the elementary section are too large by state standards and if these conditions continue to exist, it could affect our state aids," Horst said.

Improvement is also very limited in the industrial arts, sciences, home economic programs, he noted.

Also there is a lack of playground area.

An informational meeting will be conducted at 8 p.m. Nov. 10 in the old gym at the high school to discuss the situation with the district electorate.

Hearing Set For Youth in Police Assault

OSHKOSH — A preliminary hearing has been set for 10 a.m. on Nov. 3 for an 18-year-old Kaukauna youth who has been charged with assaulting a Menasha police officer.

John A. Foxgrover, 18, 308 E. Seventh St., Kaukauna, appeared before Winnebago County Court Branch 3 Judge James V. Sitter Monday morning.

The judge set bond at $5,000 and told the defendant that the felony carries a term in the state prison of up to two years.

Foxgrover, who was a passenger in a car driven by Jerome E. Nettekoven, 18, route 1, Neenah, is accused of hitting policeman S. R. Quaintance in the face early Saturday morning along the 500 block of Third Street in Menasha.

Questioning Youths

The incident occurred when Quaintance and fellow policeman James Stensen were questioning the two youths and a third youth after their auto had stalled along the road.

When they asked the three youths to come to the station for further questioning, Foxgrover allegedly refused and a struggle ensued.

Nettekoven pleaded guilty in court Monday morning to driving an auto after revocation and nonregistration of a vehicle.

Judge Sitter sentenced the Neenah youth to 30 days in jail on the first charge and fined him $10 or three days in the county jail with Huber law privileges on the second.

Doctors Not Convinced

Leukemia in Cats? Don't Fret, Yet

Don't kill your cat.

At least not until there is more conclusive evidence that it may harbor a leukemia virus capable of transmitting the disease to man.

This was the advice Monday of a state health official and three Fox Cities veterinarians, who aren't convinced that there is serious hazard.

"My advice to cat owners," said Dr. Grant Skinner, chief of the State Division of Health communicable disease section, "is certainly not to get rid of them because of this leukemia thing."

Skinner discounted the contention which appeared recently in Medical World News. He said he understood that the article since has been denied by the researchers who claim they were misquoted.

The article indicated that virologists strongly suspect that house cats are the primary hosts "for the oncogenic (tumor forming) virus that in turn is the odds-on favorite to produce leukemia," a cancer of the blood. This was reported recently at a New Jersey leukemia conference.

The magazine said pathologist Johannes Clemmensen, of the Danish Cancer registry, a speaker at the conference, warned: "This virus seems capable of crossing to other species. Such crossing may result in the production of epidemics of contagious malignant disease in man."

"Highly Inaccurate"

Dr. Gus Thornton, chief of staff at Boston Animal Hospital, called the statements sensational and highly inaccurate. He urged cat owners not to panic or dispose of their cats.

Skinner said he didn't believe the virus could be crossed to humans. He said he read in a medical journal this weekend that the researcher had been misquoted.

Although they wouldn't discount the contention for lack of information, Fox Cities veterinarians noted there are very few cases of cat leukemia in the area. One said he had about a case a year.

Another had only the comment: "I don't think this is a time to get excited and kill all the cats."

Intruder Pulls Girl 7, From Her Bedroom

Child Found Tied, Gagged Outdoors; Suspects Questioned

A 7-year-old south side girl who was dragged from her bedroom by a young assailant early Sunday, was not sexually molested, Appleton detectives said Monday.

Police were called to the home at 4:10 a.m. Sunday by the girl's mother who found her behind the garage, bound and gagged with her pajama bottoms.

Police also were told the intruder, who apparently entered through a back door, took $10 to $15 from a billfold on a kitchen table.

The mother told police that she was awakened by what she thought to be muffled screams. She checked her daughter's first-floor bedroom and found her gone. A 2-year-old son was still asleep in the bedroom.

The mother ran outside and found her daughter. The pajama bottoms were tied around the girl's neck and mouth, police were told.

The girl said her assailant took her from her bedroom and once outside, jumped on her back and struck her on the head. The girl, who was examined at the hospital Sunday, suffered minor bruises.

The girl gave police a description of her assailant.

Police said today that they are "checking out" a couple of suspects.

The girl's family had returned home about 2 a.m. Sunday. The children had been with a baby-sitter.

Youth to Make Restitution, Judge Delays Ruling

Restitution totaling $34 was ordered Monday for a 17-year-old Appleton youth who appeared in Outagamie County Juvenile Court on five burglary charges, three theft counts and a disorderly conduct charge.

Judge Raymond P. Dohr continued the case to Nov. 10 at which time he will rule whether the youth is delinquent. The delay is to give the Outagamie County Department of Social Services time to make a study and a recommendation. The boy was released to the custody of his parents.

Sgt. Philip Condu of the Appleton Police Department said the boy, and others, burglarized homes owned by Franklin Reese, 425 E. McArthur St.; Walter Raddatz, 1200 W. Parkway Boulevard; Larry Fehrman, 1400 N. Viola St.; Erwin Klues, 913 W. Summer St.; and Walter Schneider, 1630 S. Driscoll St.

The youth was further charged with thefts of money and liquor from three of the homes. The offenses occurred last February, March, April and August.

Police said he also was involved in pouring syrup, flour and shaving cream on several girls at a Xavier High School dance last June 20.

Police & Fire Beat

Terry Akey, 28, 2038 W. Second St., was fined $150 and costs or 37 days in jail and his driver's license was revoked for a year Monday after he pleaded guilty of driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Appleton police charged Akey after his car struck a parked auto Sunday night in the 1000 block of W. Spencer Street. He appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Daniel VanElzen, 12, 919 N. Durkee St., was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital Sunday afternoon for an accidental gunshot wound to the right foot, suffered while hunting with a .22 caliber rifle near Royalton.

Robert Boyce, 23, and Ronald Boyce, 19, both of Green Bay, were each fined $25 and costs or six days in jail in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Monday after pleaded guilty to charges of trespassing on Fun, Feather and Fur Hunting Club land in the Town of Bovina Sept. 29. They were hunting deer on the posted land.

A 10-day jail sentence, with Huber law privileges, was ordered Monday afternoon for William T. Roberts, 18, 1701 E. Melrose Ave., who pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge brought by Appleton police who arrested him in the 900 block of W. College Avenue at 11 p.m. Saturday.

Found guilty after a trial Monday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, Gerald Voeks, 1527 1/2 N. Alvin St., was fined $50 and costs or 12 days in jail for the June 18 theft of a case of beer from a cooler at the Pizza Palace, 815 W. College Ave.

A policeman said he saw Voeks leave the rear of the restaurant about 2:30 a.m., with the case of beer, which he set near the building. Voeks contended he was playing a trick on a waitress.

Collection envelopes containing $32.10 were stolen from an office at First English Lutheran Church Sunday. The loss was discovered Monday after the empty envelopes were found in City Park.

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad took Beverly Kappell, 33, from her home at 1409 N. Bennett St., to Memorial Hospital at 11:45 a.m. Monday after she suffered chest pains.

Donna Green, 227 E. Winnebago St., suffered a cut forehead and injuries to her neck, knees and chest, and Darlene Sturms, 1321 N. Drew St., suffered leg, head and neck injuries when their cars collided at Winnebago and Morrison streets at 4:30 p.m. Monday. Both women were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by ambulance.

Joanne Ballou, 1303 S. East St., suffered minor injuries when her car, which was northbound on Superior Street, collided with a car driven by Raymond B. Rewalt, 36, 312 E. Pershing St., which was eastbound on Franklin Street, at 1 p.m. Monday.

KIMBERLY Edward Lowenhagen, 521 E. Second St., told police a battery was stolen from his car near his home Thursday or Friday.

KAUKAUNA — Firemen extinguished a blaze of undetermined cause in a small wood shack behind the Kenneth Anderson residence, 521 W. 10th St., about 2:35 p.m. Saturday.

KAUKAUNA — Police recovered a boat, stolen from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers last summer, over the weekend when a Corps of Engineers employe saw two boys playing in the boat on the Fox River. The 16-year-old told police that

Greenville Board Backs VTE Bonding

Town Approves Ordinance to Ban Junk Cars at Dump

GREENVILLE — The town board approved the bonding resolution that was adopted by the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12, at its October meeting Monday.

A motion was approved that an ordinance be adopted and published that the town will not allow any junk vehicles to be put in the town dump.

Norman Julius was present to discuss the progress of the Bear Creek Watershed project.

Alvin Schroeder, Kenneth Schroeder and Earl Schroeder discussed a ditch they had dug on what in their opinion was a town road that goes through the swamp near Greenwood Road.

A copy of a petition that was sent to the Wisconsin Public Service Corp. by some property owners in the area, requesting that the utility company select an alternate route for the power line that they are proposing through their land, was received and put on file.

Mrs. Larry Huebner presented a petition signed by property owners in the area of the town cemetery, located on School Road between Ellen Lane and Greenwood Road, requesting the Town of Greenville to keep up and improve the appearance of the cemetery.

and another youth the evening of Aug. 6 took a parked car owned by Jerome VanDinter. The other youth, using a key from a different auto, stole the 1959 auto, but the 16-year-old drove it back to where it had been parked on Klein Street.

The boy has been in Juvenile Court twice before, on July 25, 1966, and on Dec. 20, 1966, at which time he was placed in the custody of the Outagamie County Department of Social Services and was taken from his home. He returned home last December.

Check Leads In Killing of Woman, 82

WAUTOMA — Authorities are "checking out some leads" in the Saturday death of an 82-year-old Waushara County woman who was found in her home beaten and stabbed, a deputy reported today.

The body of Mrs. Irene Souder was found in her rural farm house by her daughter, Mrs. Louis Bednarek. She reportedly died of one of the stab wounds in her back and head.

State Crime Laboratory agents were sent to the scene to aid county deputies and a state report was expected today.

The body of Mrs. Souder, a widow who lived about four miles west of here, was found about four to six hours after she died. Deputy Coroner Carl Ellies said.
